Safety of Chinese Government Again Menaced by Crisis

Finance Minister Soong Advises President Chiang Kai Shek That Immediate Victory of Nationalist Forces Imperative to Prevent Grave Detrimental Developments Within the Administration

Communist Elements Abduct Foreigners

(Associated Press)

SHANGHAI, May 26.—The Nationalist Government of China tonight faced another crisis menacing its safety. President Chiang Kai-Shek, personally commanding the Government forces in Honan Province, which since May 8 have been attempting to turn back the North Alliance rebel armies, was informed by Finance Minister Soong that immediate victory was imperative to prevent grave detrimental developments within the Government.

Backing his appeal for the quick defeat of the rebels, who have fought a series of battles with Chinang' troops, the minister's telegram stated that communistic and bandit depredations throughout China, failure of crops and demoralized business were combining to present the gravest menace the Nationalist Government had encountered in its brief and turbulent existence.

The Government's depleted treasury has been subjected to an almost continuous levy to meet a succession of revolts, to wrestle with banditry that has scourged several provinces, and with looting and massacre. Fields uplanted by farmers turned bandits or soldiers are unproductive, the country's buying power has faded due to the drop in price of silver and business failures are numerous.

RUSSIAN INTERNATIONALE

Upon completing a tour of the Yangtze Valley provinces a representative of the Nationalist Government Foreign Ministry today stated that the various Red armies of China were acting upon the instigation of the Russian Third Internationale, which was seeking to create a reign of terror in order to embarrass the Nanking Government.

The Foreign Office representative, who also is a high military officer of the Nationalist Government, asserted that Communist elements were seeking to gain their purpose principally by abducting foreigners in the interior and thereby embroiling the Nanking administration in difficulties with foreign Governments.

BERRY CROP THIS SEASON TO BE SHORT

The strawberry crop this year will not be a heavy one. This is the information which the markets branch of the Department of Agriculture has to offer after a survey of the situation. This applies to the Mainland crop as well as the Island berry production, and, moreover, the situation on the United States side of the line is even less promising than it is in British Columbia.

The situation is described as one which cannot be altered now. The dry weather of last Fall was not propitious to the development of strong growth in the berry plantations. It was under these conditions that the Spring opened, so that the outlook was not for a great crop even under the most favorable conditions this season.

Next came the setback from frost in various parts of the country, with the result that at the very best the supply of berries, both on Vancouver Island and the Mainland, will not be a very heavy one, after the fresh berry demand has been taken care of.

PROCESSED AND FROZEN FRUIT

It is promised that there will be a very considerable amount of the surplus over that required for the immediate fresh market will be taken care of by processing and

BRITISH PREMIER GIVES EMPIRE DAY MESSAGE

By THOMAS T. CHAMPION
Canadian Press Staff Correspondent.

LONDON, May 26.—"We have not only planted colonies and founded nations but we have undertaken the care of the people who could not take care of themselves," said Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, in an Empire Day message radioed from Holyrood, where he is snatching a short rest from the affairs of state.

"And," added the Prime Minister, with a note of warning which has generally been applied to the Indian situation, "we must see that no weakness on our part of too great a readiness to withdraw from the guardianship we have assumed, will leave these people to relapse into the conditions from which our intervention rescued them. Yet there must be no deflection from the goal of self-government."

Senate to Leave Treaty Over for Special Session

WASHINGTON, May 26.—Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader, announced today after a series of conferences with Senate and House leaders, that the London Naval Limitations Treaty would be left for the special session of the Senate, which President Hoover is prepared to call.

LORD BYNG IS NOT RETIRING

SOUTHAMPTON, May 26.—Lord Byng, chief commissioner of London Police and former Governor-General of Canada, returned here today from a trip of recuperation to South Africa, and definitely quashed rumor of his impending retirement.

"I am returning to my duties immediately," he said.

"And as long as I remain in good health I shall not think of retiring. I am perfectly fit again."

The R-100 is pictured here moored to her mast at Cardington, preparatory to her voyage to this Dominion via Cape Farewell, Greenland. It is estimated the crossing will take three days. Following her arrival in Canada, the dirigible will make several shorter trips, probably to the United States. It is expected that the R-100 will set out for Canada towards the end of the present week.

Western Australian People Are Again Restless at Price of Adhesion to Commonwealth

MINISTRY ASKED FOR REFERENDUM

(Canadian Press Cable via Reuter's)

PERTH, Western Australia, May 26.—The campaign in Western Australia for secession of the state from the Commonwealth of Australia was initiated enthusiastically at a public meeting yesterday at which Premier Philip Collier, head of the Labor Government, which has been in power since 1924, presided.

The meeting was attended by the Mayor of Perth, the state capital, and by members of Parliament. The meeting passed a motion pledging support for the movement to create a Dominion of Western Australia and urging the Ministry to give the people an opportunity to pass upon the question in a referendum.

Premier Collier submitted that the Commonwealth Federation was costing the state £8,000,000 a year (about thirty-eight and a half million dollars). This amount, he declared, constituted a tremendous burden on a state of only 400,000 inhabitants.

BREAKS OWN RECORD

MUSKOGUE, Okla., May 26.—Miss Laura Ingalls, twenty-five-year-old New York aviatrix, landed at 7:50 o'clock tonight after making 980 consecutive loops, breaking her own woman's record by 636.

She was in the air three hours and five minutes.

GOVERNOR IS BACK IN B.C. AFTER TOUR

GOLDEN, B.C., May 26.—Hon. R. Randolph Bruce, Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, traveling in the private car Van Horne, returned to British Columbia today on his way home to Victoria. He is accompanied by his eldest niece, Miss Margaret Bruce Mackenzie, who will succeed her sister, formerly Miss Helen Mackenzie, as chatelaine at Government House. His Honor is greatly delighted with his visit to the Old Country, where he met a great number of prominent people in political, business and social circles, missing no opportunity to boost British Columbia upon every occasion.

His Honor felt greatly encouraged at the increased feeling of interest and confidence in the wonderful future for British Columbia's resources and the friendly feeling displayed on all sides for Canada generally. He could discover no foundation whatever for any feeling of antipathy towards Canadian wheat, the situation being entirely due to business principles of supply and demand and market prices.

EMPIRE MARKETING BOARD

His Honor does not think that Canada fully appreciates the value of the propaganda so extensively carried on by the Empire Marketing Board, and says that he never on any previous visit heard so much talk of Empire. He referred to the friendly reception in England of Canada's new budget and to the appreciation of the concrete outstanding example of the spirit of Empire displayed by the C.P.R. in giving contracts to British shipbuilders during the past ten years for twenty-one vessels costing over twenty millions sterling, without once asking for a bid from foreign firms.

The Lieutenant-Governor found no evidence of large stocks on hand of lead and copper, and consequently looks for an early improvement in prices for these metals.

Miss Mackenzie was greatly delighted by her ride on engine 5900 from Golden to Beavermouth.

Queen Celebrates Her Sixty-Third Birthday

LONDON, May 26.—The Queen today celebrated her sixty-third birthday in the privacy of Buckingham Palace, where all the family were gathered with congratulations and presents.

Most importance was attached to the visit of the grandchildren—Princess Mary's two sons and little Princess Elizabeth of York—whose presentation of gifts to grandma was made with impressive enthusiasm.

There was no national celebration except for the firing of artillery salutes at London, Windsor and naval and military stations.

NEW STATUS MAKES LAWS OUT OF DATE

Resolutions Submitted by Hon. E. Lapointe Would Be Taken Up at Imperial Conference

SHIPPING RULES WOULD BE AFFECTED

(Canadian Press)

OTTAWA, May 26.—For a large part of this afternoon and evening, the House of Commons discussed the report of the conference on the operation of Dominion legislation and merchant shipping legislation which took place in London last October. Canada's ministerial representative at the conference was Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice, and today Mr. Lapointe moved a resolution declaring that the House approve recommendations made by the conference. Subsequently he made a statement to the House explaining the purposes of the conference and the conclusions arrived at there.

After several members had spoken on the resolution, Mr. Lapointe moved adjournment of the debate at 11 o'clock. He will answer the objections offered tomorrow and his speech will conclude the debate.

Last October grew out of the Imperial Conference of 1926, at which

City Council Discusses Terms of Proposed Agreement With Colwood Racing Association

DRAFT OF TERMS IS REFERRED BACK

A draft agreement between the city and the Colwood Park Association, Limited, providing for the grant to the association of exclusive horse racing privileges at the Willows Park until November 30, 1941, was submitted to the City Council at its meeting last night, as the product of negotiations between a special committee appointed by the council and the representatives of the association. Two or three of the most important clauses in this draft agreement met with very emphatic opposition; other clauses being either accepted as they stood or agreed to in principle, some revision of the wording being required.

The latter part of Clause 5 met with general disapproval. It provided that the Racing Association need not use automatic betting machines "unless the use of the said machines shall be available to the Racing Association at a cost not exceeding one-half of one per cent of the money passing through them, and on the condition that the cost of supplying, installing, maintaining and operating the said machines

Has Most Unusual Way of Courting Electors

(Canadian Press Cable)

LONDON, May 26.—Shapurji Saklatvala, Indian parsee and Communist, who was twice member of Parliament for North Battersea Division, has an unusual way of courting an electorate. Saklatvala, who has long had the habit of expressing his radical thoughts without reservation, and has many times been under the eye of the authorities, is running here in the Shettleston constituency, rendered vacant by the death of the Rt. Hon. John Wheatley.

"You are mugs," he told his hearers at a meeting yesterday. "You are mugs because for the past ten years you have been saying 'Give labor a chance.'"

Saklatvala called the members of the Labor Government "murderers," on account of "wholesale butchering in India."

CHAMBERS REQUEST IMPERIAL PENNY POSTAGE REVIVAL

Congress of British Empire Trade Bodies, in Session at London, Requests Council of Federation to Foster Growth of Film Industry, Calculated to Promote British Interests

Interchange of Textbooks In Empire Under Discussion

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
Canadian Press Staff Correspondent.

LONDON, May 26.—The Congress of the British Empire Chambers of Commerce quickly got down to business today. With three Australian dissentients, it held this afternoon that the time had arrived for the re-introduction of the penny post throughout the Empire.

It approved a fixed date for Easter. It decided that the council for the federation should take steps to foster the growth of the film industry calculated to promote British Empire interests. It urged consideration by all Chambers of Commerce of the adoption of model arbitration rules. It welcomed Empire school textbooks and adopted a resolution favoring study of the Empire as a specific subject.

At adjournment the resolution of the Toronto Board of Trade, recommending an interchange of textbooks of the Empire, was still under discussion.

EXTENDED DISCUSSION

The penny post and Empire films resolution brought extended discussion. The penny post resolution, which came from South Africa, was opposed by the Australian delegates—with the exception of those from Tasmania, who approved of it—on the ground that the present economic position of Australia could not stand the loss involved.

Moving the penny post resolution, Mr. I. H. Haarburgher, of Bloemfontein, South Africa, cited the fact that New Zealand and Canada had given the lead in restoring penny postage. Canada, he said, had given it in the form of a Christmas box, which was very much appreciated. Various amendments to the resolution were suggested, with a view to securing a unanimous vote in favor of the principle of the penny post.

Sir John Sandeman Allen, of Liverpool, proposed to insert "at the earliest possible moment," but the mover of the resolution declined to accept this amendment. "This," Mr. Haarburgher declared, quoting Lord Meichett's luncheon address, "is the time to think Imperially."

RIOTS OCCUR IN THREE BIG BURMA CITIES

Twenty-Six Are Dead and Nearly 700 Injured in Disturbances Between Bands of Coolies

ADEQUATE POLICE HELP REQUESTED

(Associated Press)

BOMBAY, May 26.—Bloody rioting in Rangoon, Bombay and Dacca today brought British authorities in India face to face with a serious situation in these three big cities of Burma and the Indian Peninsula.

The rioting at Rangoon was the most serious of any. It had no direct connection with the civil disobedience campaign of the Nationalists. It broke between different bands of coolies, when laborers were imported to replace striking Burmese dock workers. The last reports gave twenty-six dead and nearly seven hundred injured.

All bazaars were closed and cavalcades of mounted police clattered through the streets in large patrols. Detachments of the Cameron Highlanders and Punjab Regiment were in the place and ready to intervene if necessary.

BROUGHT UNDER CONTROL

The rioters were brought under control by a vigorous display of force late in the day, but none of the

Clover Point Land Refused By Department

In a letter from the Department of National Defence, at Ottawa, the city is informed that it is not the desire of the department to surrender title at present to the property at Clover Point, for which the city has asked, but that the department is willing to lease it to the city for park purposes at a nominal rental for a term of years.

It has been consistently held by the city that such a lease would be useless, as the city would not be warranted in spending money on property without security of permanently possessing it.

PERNAMBUCO SEES ZEPPELIN BEFORE NORTHBOUND FLIGHT

PERNAMBUCO, Brazil, May 26.—With nearly 8,000 miles of her historic tricontinental voyage completed, the Graf Zeppelin tonight was moored to her mast waiting another 5,000-mile jaunt northward to Havana.

Arriving here at 9:10 a.m. (7:10 a.m. Eastern standard time), the Graf today made her bow to Rio Janiero, and was being provisioned and refueled for her return across the equator, and the long flight up the South American coast.

Liner Is Sunk After Fire to Prevent Explosion

HONOLULU, May 26.—All members of the crew of the City of Honolulu were accounted for at a roll call ordered today by officials of the Los Angeles Steamship Corporation, following persistent rumors that two of the crew perished when fire attacked the liner in its berth here Sunday. Flames broke out about 4 p.m. More than three hours later the liner was scuttled at her pier, in an effort to extinguish flames which defied efforts of the entire Honolulu fire department and four fire boats. No passengers were aboard the vessel when the fire started.

The City of Honolulu lies in thirty-two feet of water, her upper decks and superstructure showing above the water. She was ordered sunk by the fire department to prevent explosion of 16,000 barrels of fuel oil aboard, it being feared that the explosion would hurl flaming oil upon the wharf, causing a conflagration.

RIGHT OF SECESSION

(Canadian Press Cable via Reuter's)

MELBOURNE, State of Victoria, Aus., May 26.—A note of caution regarding the question of a state seceding from a central government was introduced by Lord Somers, Governor of Victoria, at a dinner of the Royal Empire Society here last night.

"There are times," said the governor, "when people become impatient and feel they would prefer separate existence. Provided their motive is a loyal one I can see no reason why such suggestions would not be made and discussed. We are becoming so international in this age that I think a community would be very wise to examine its motives before agreeing to secession. The most attractive slogans may fill our eyes with dust."

CONSTITUTIONAL ISSUE

Sir William Irvine, Lieutenant-Governor of the state, in surveying the constitutional position in regard to Federal Governor-Generalship, declared there was no right or power to be found in the Commonwealth Constitution by virtue of which ministers would be entitled to tender advice to the King, on which the King was bound to act, in appointing a Governor-General. This reference was to the question which has arisen of the possible appointment of Sir Isaac Isaacs, Chief Justice, and a native Australian, to the viceroyalty. The appointment is said to be favored by the Cabinet of Prime Minister James Scullin and would break all precedent as the King has always, heretofore, appointed a non-Australian to act in his behalf.

Send Resolution to Nanaimo City Council, Demanding $4.75 a Day for Services

MR. S. GRAHAM TO BE BUILDING INSPECTOR

NANAIMO, B.C., May 26.—The City Council meeting this evening was brief, there being very little business transacted. Mayor Hall presided, with a full roll of aldermen present. A letter was received from T. Harroll, secretary of the unemployed, who stated that at a meeting of theirs a resolution was passed whereas when any work was done by them for the city that they be paid at a rate of $4.75 per day.

On motion of Alderman Dixon and seconded by Alderman Green, the letter was received and filed, and Mr. Harroll will be notified to the effect that the city has already made provision.

A petition signed by a number of business men to amend the early closing by-law was, on motion, handed to the legislative committee for report.

On a report and recommendation of the waterworks committee, the Nanaimo Lumber Company will be permitted to use No. 6 reservoir.

The public works manager reported an expenditure on streets for the past week of $431.87, and on waterworks $82.80. The report was received and filed.

On motion of Alderman Inkster, seconded by Alderman Dixon, Mr. S. Graham was appointed building inspector.

By-law No. 471, amending the waterworks improvement loan by-law, was reconsidered and finally adopted.

Mrs. K. Spencer was granted permission to hold an Alexandra rose tag day early in June, the sum realized to go towards the Bastion Chapter, I.O.D.E., maternity ward in the local hospital.

RIOTS OCCUR IN THREE BIG BURMA CITIES

In Dacca, an important city of Bengal, 150 miles northeast of Calcutta, Hindus and Moslems fiercely fought each other. During the combat a number of deaths were reported and many injured.

The situation was so serious tonight that the chairman of the district board telegraphed the Viceroy of India, Lord Irwin, for adequate police help "in order that the people may feel they are still living under the British Government."

EXTREMELY DIFFICULT

Communication with Dacca was extremely difficult and has been so for the past ten days, but everything indicated that feeling among Hindus and Mohammedans is very tense.

Bombay did not escape unscathed. Two persons were killed and nineteen injured, including a Mohammedan woman, during suppression of a riot in the heart of the Mo'lem quarter. A mob of five thousand Moslems stoned European policemen.

The police were compelled to fire several volleys, first over the heads and then into the mass of the rioters. They were forced to fire in self-defence.

The disorders, which were centred in the Bhendi bazaar, were caused by a Mohammedan hooligan throwing stones at a dog belonging to a European police sergeant. When the sergeant started to pursue him a crowd of Moslems began throwing stones.

A riotous mob of 5,000 rapidly gathered. They marched on the police quarters and stoned the buildings, and the police finally responded by revolver fire.

Salt raiding continued. At Wadala, 200 were injured and several hundred Nationalists arrested in a raid on the Government salt pans under eighty-three prominent leaders. The natives stormed the wire enclosure and thirty returned with baskets of salt.

and the cost of errors made during their operation shall be borne by the person or company supplying the said machines."

DECISIVE VOTE

Aldermen Mara, Straith and Cullin opposed this provision on the ground that it left a loophole for the Racing Association to escape from using betting machines if it so desired. Aldermen Woodward and Peden held that it was necessary to protect the Racing Association in its bargaining with the owners of betting machines, only one make of these machines being legalized at the present time, they stated. Alderman Adam said that the present agreement had two years to run, and that at the end of that time there was every probability there would be several makes of such machines on the market.

It was moved that the provision quoted be struck out, and the motion carried by a vote of seven to two, Aldermen Woodward and Peden alone voting for its retention.

Alderman Litchfield thought that the council should state its position as being willing to negotiate with the Racing Association at the end of the two years as to what would be required as to betting machines, and moved that a provision to that effect be drafted and incorporated in Clause 5. Alderman Woodward thought this useless. He felt sure from the position taken by the representatives of the Racing Association that the vote just taken would make an agreement impossible. Aldermen Adam and others were not convinced of this, and Alderman Litchfield's motion carried.

The second clause which failed to win assent was that providing for the possibility that Dominion or Provincial legislation might make race track betting illegal before the expiration of the twelve years. The original offer of the Racing Association was that in return for the horse racing privileges, it would expend $30,000 in moving the race track and in erecting a grandstand and other buildings. The question then arose as to what position the association would be in if, after this expenditure had been made, its horse racing concession should be rendered worthless by prohibitory legislation. The draft agreement provided that in such an event, the association should, for the remainder of the twelve years have the use of the grandstand and other improvements for the whole year, from January 1 to November 30, allowing the city the use of these properties for only one day each month during that period.

Alderman Woodward thought this was only fair and reasonable. At present the grounds were not used for more than three or four days a year outside of the time during which the exhibition was in progress.

COUNTER PROPOSALS

Alderman Mara said that the city was giving a very valuable concession. What was it getting in return? It would not be the fault of the city if the Dominion or province forbade horse races with betting. That was a risk that any horse racing association must take. He was in favor of allowing the association the use of the ground and buildings for one or two weeks a year, to be used either for horse racing or, if that was prohibited, for other attractions. But to give it the whole year up to December, retaining only one day a month for the city was, he thought, ridiculous.

Aldermen Smith and Straith agreed that the association was asking too much, although willing to go some way in the direction of allowing the use of the grounds for other attractions put on by the association.

Alderman Peden thought that it would be possible to arrive at some agreement with the association on this point that would be acceptable.

Mayor Anscomb pointed out that the clause, as it stood, dealt with the right to use the grandstand and buildings, but was silent as to the use of the oval. Both should go together, and it would be well to amend the wording to provide for that.

It was finally agreed to refer the clause back to the special committee consisting of Aldermen Woodward, Smith and Peden, to confer with the association. Similar reference was made in the case of other clauses not accepted as they stood; the committee to report to the Mayor when a special meeting of the council is to be held.

BERRY CROP THIS SEASON TO BE SHORT

freezing, for which there has been a decided demand created.

Then the reports from the Washington berry growers and inspection of the fields that are in this fruit reveals that fact that the plantations were worse hit there than in British Columbia, so that it is not anticipated that there will be any great relief coming from that source.

The raspberry outlook is rather better where these are grown in British Columbia, while on the other side of the line in Washington there is a still better promise for this variety of fruit.

Loganberries are promising well on the Island, and the bushes are giving promise of a very rich fruitage.

As far as the tree fruits are concerned, there is still a great deal of doubt with regard to what will be the results. Mr. W. W. Duncan and Mr. J. A. Grant have returned from the Interior, and announce that the growers are waiting for the "June drop," which is watched with a great deal of care by all fruit growers, and which alone decides the question of what has been the damage from frost or other setbacks of the earlier Spring.

EFFECT ON STONE FRUIT

This "June drop" applies to cherries and apples in particular, but also to plums and other stone crops. With an early season the dropping of formed fruit, which has suffered from the setback, should come early in June. This year has been a somewhat backward one, and it is probable that it will not be due until towards the middle of the month.

In the fruit-growing parts of the Interior, as well as on the Coast, this coming month is awaited with anxiety to see what has been the extent of the early Spring weather conditions in the forming fruits.

Temporary Relief To Forest Fire Situation Given

FREDERICTON, N.B., May 26.—Temporary relief to the forest fire situation in New Brunswick was afforded in nearly all sections of the province today by rains which began to fall early in the morning. The northern areas, where conditions reached their most dangerous degree this season because of careless holiday makers over the week-end, received most benefit.

Chambers Requests Imperial Penny Postage Revival

The amendment was declared lost by a large majority, but the motion carried.

MOTION PICTURE FILMS

The motion with regard to motion picture films was much modified before it was unanimously adopted. As submitted by Mr. William Birks, of Montreal, former president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, the motion called upon the various Empire Governments to "take such steps as may be in their power to foster the growth of the film industry free from foreign domination of our own people and calculated to promote British interests."

Mr. Birks said 80 per cent of the films shown in Great Britain, and 90 per cent of those shown in the Dominions and Colonies, were American. He submitted that American films offered distorted history, and stated there was a definite demand for British films.

Lieut.-Colonel J. A. Cooper, of Toronto, speaking as one engaged in the motion picture business, said the problem was not so simple as might be thought. He pressed that the Congress should devise some plan to help the production of British films. There should be more active propaganda for British films than the mere passing of a resolution, he said.

RESOLUTION REDRAFTED

The resolution was redrafted and unanimously adopted. It requests the Council of the Federation of Chambers of Commerce to take such steps as may be in their power to foster the growth of the film industry, calculated to promote British Empire interests.

Col. A. E. Kirkpatrick, of Toronto, was strongly critical of some of the British school textbooks. He described the references to Canada he had read as "the damndest rot," observing that until he had seen the textbooks he had been unable to understand why such hopeless and stupendous ignorance of Canada existed.

Rich . . . crisp . . . more nourishing

because they're Shot from Guns

125 million explosions in every grain break open every food cell . . . give Puffed Grains the virtual nourishment of hot cooked cereals.

WHAT makes Puffed Grains so crisp . . . light and crunchy . . . delectably good to eat?

They're different from all other cereals because they are "food shot from guns." Plump, meaty grains of wheat and rice are sealed in huge bronze guns. The guns are revolved in fiery ovens. Then fired.

This causes 125 million explosions in every grain. It breaks open every tiny food cell. Thus Puffed Wheat and Puffed Rice become as completely digestible as though they had been cooked for hours. Hence virtually as nourishing as hot cooked cereals.

In addition, the grains are puffed to 8 times normal size. They have all the buttery crunchiness of fresh toast. They taste like sweet new nut-meats.

Delight your family with this splendid grain nourishment in this dainty, enticing form. Serve Puffed Grains for breakfast. As lunches for children. Toast them with butter to make a delicious, new kind of popcorn. Your grocer has Puffed Wheat and Puffed Rice. The Quaker Oats Company.

NEW STATUS MAKES LAWS OUT OF DATE

the new status of the Dominions in the British Commonwealth of Nations was confirmed. The report of the Imperial Conference of 1926 declared in relation to Great Britain and the Dominions that:

"They are autonomous communities within the British Empire, equal in status, and in no way subordinate one to another in any aspect of their domestic or external affairs, though united by a common allegiance to the crown, and freely associated as members of the British Commonwealth of Nations."

The report, however, recognized that existing administrative, legislative and judicial forms were not in accord with sessions as described. It was therefore recommended that a sub-committee be appointed between the time of sitting of the last Imperial Conference to go into the whole question of Dominion legislation, and also merchant shipping legislation with a view to bringing it into line with the changed conditions. The recommendation was duly carried out. The sub-committee was formed—it met in London last October—and its report was the subject of today's discussion. The report will go to the Imperial Conference when it meets in October of the present year.

ANCIENT BATTLE PUZZLES

Discovery of hundreds of massive stone catapult balls at Pevensey Castle, near Eastborune, England, has revealed the possibility of an ancient battle unknown to modern historians. Two hundred of these missiles, each weighing from fifty-six to two hundred pounds, have been found inside the ruins of the Norman part of the castle. Two hundred more have been found in the moat, and hundreds near by. Most of them are of Norman make, and are of Sussex green sandstone, of which the castle was built. Excavators say there is evidence of a terrific battle centuries ago and possibly an annihilation of Pevensey garrison. Pevensey Castle was besieged, captured and recaptured several times in the twelfth and thirteenth centuries, but the stone missiles indicate a battle bigger than any known in the history of the place.

SALMON TREATY IS TABLED IN OTTAWA HOUSE

Pact Provides Joint Control and Operation of Sockeye Fisheries by Canada and U.S.

WATERS TO WHICH MEASURE APPLIES

(Canadian Press)

OTTAWA, May 26.—Providing for joint control and operation of the sockeye salmon fisheries along the Coast of British Columbia, the State of Washington and in the Fraser River and its tributaries, by Canada and the United States, the new Sockeye Salmon Treaty was tabled in the House of Commons today by Premier W. L. Mackenzie King.

The treaty is to operate for a period of sixteen years and thereafter until one year after notice has been given by either party of the desire to terminate. A joint commission of six members, three to be appointed by Canada and three by the United States, is to be set up, and will be called the International Pacific Salmon Fisheries Commission. The treaty was signed on behalf of Canada by Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian Minister at Washington, and for the United States by Mr. Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of State. The treaty is to be ratified by the Canadian and United States Governments.

POWERS OF COMMISSION

The commission is empowered to make a thorough investigation into the natural history of the Fraser River sockeye salmon, hatchery methods and spawning conditions. It will conduct cultural operations in the territory under its jurisdiction to increase the production of sockeye salmon and will improve spawning grounds and construct and maintain hatcheries and other such facilities. The commission will also have the power to recommend to the two Governments the removal of any obstacle to the movement of salmon up the rivers within their territory.

In order to promote the object of the treaty, the commission is given authority to make regulations limiting the taking of sockeye salmon in any of the waters covered by the treaty. It will also have power to prescribe the size of meshes in all fishing operated in these waters.

HIGH SEAS

In so far as the treaty relates to the high seas, the regulations of the commission will only be binding on the nationals of Canada or the United States and will not apply to fishermen from other countries.

Inasmuch as the purpose of the treaty is to establish a fishery by the joint efforts of the two countries, it is agreed that both should share equally in the accruing benefits. To this end the commission is required to make regulations with a view to allowing, as nearly as practicable, an equal portion of fish to be caught each year by fishermen of Canada and of the United States.

QUESTION OF SEIZURE

The officers of either country may seize any national or inhabitant or boat of either country found violating the orders of the commission. Any person or boat seized in this wey is to be delivered as soon as possible to the officials of the country to which he or it belongs. The authorities of Canada alone have jurisdiction to prosecute and impose penalties on Canadian nationals, and the authorities of the United States have similar jurisdiction in respect to United States nationals.

The parties of the treaty agree to enact and enforce legislation necessary to give effect to the regulations of the commission, and to impose appropriate penalties for violations.

The commissioners are to hold office during the pleasure of the country appointing them. No action of the commission will be effective unless it is affirmatively voted for by at least two commissioners representing each country.

EXPENSES OF BODY

The expenses of the commission are to be borne equally by the two countries. Each country is to pay the salaries and expenses of its own commissioners, and other expenses are to be shared in equal parts. The commission is required to make an annual report to the two Governments as to its investigations and any action it has taken.

The waters to which the treaty applies are described under three headings, as follows:

1. The territorial waters and the high seas westward from the Western Coast of Canada and the United States and from a direct line drawn across the entrance to the Strait of Juan de Fuca from Bonilla Point, on Vancouver Island, to the lighthouse of Tatoosh Island, Washington, between the forty-eighth and forty-ninth degrees of North latitude, except Barkley Sound and Nitinat Lake.

2. The waters between Vancouver Island and the Mainland as far north as Lasqueti Island.

3. The Fraser River and the lakes and river tributary to it.

GRAHAM-PAIGE SEDAN WON BY SPORT PATRON

PURCHASED TICKET AT BALL GROUNDS

Arriving in Victoria about three weeks ago from Innerleithen, Scotland, Mr. Malcolm Robertson shortly afterwards attended a baseball game at Royal Athletic Park. It was the first time he had ever seen the game played, going out of curiosity, and while leaving the grounds purchased a ticket for the Graham-Paige sedan, which was advertised to be given away as a feature of the Empire Day celebration, sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The number of Mr. Robertson's ticket was 2380, and on Saturday night last, during the community dancing at the Crystal Garden, Mr. Anscomb drew the number corresponding to that held by Mr. Robertson, who lives at 601 Toronto Street, and who now finds himself the possessor of a fine motor car, and evidently well on the road to success in the city in which he chose to locate.

Section House Is Burned at Cameron Lake

Fire commencing in a spark from a chimney, destroyed the section house at Cameron Lake, on the Esquimalt & Nanaimo Railway, on Sunday. The fire spread to the neighboring right of way, entailing a summons to the railway's fire car, and the outbreak was controlled after some brush had ignited.

The building is estimated to have been valued at about $2,500. Mr. J. M. Cameron, the manager, says the section house will be replaced as soon as possible.

B.C. ELECTRIC TO HAVE ONE CALL

Beginning on Monday Private Telephone Exchange Will Be Installed

All telephone calls made to the British Columbia Electric Railway Company, on and after Monday, June 2, will be made over the single number, 9390. The reason for this, as explained by British Columbia Electric officials, is that, in order to give prompt and efficient service to the hundreds of telephone calls daily received by the company over a score of individual telephones, it has been decided to install a private telephone exchange connecting with all departments. Thus, whether the caller requires the light and power department, the traffic department, purchasing, billing, lost property, substation, line or any other department, or wishes to speak to some official of the company, the call will be made over telephone number 9390. This number will call the private exchange in the company's office and, when this exchange answers, the caller will ask for the department or individual with which he wishes to speak.

Sometimes a caller may not be quite sure what department should be called under certain circumstances. In such cases the operator on the exchange will inquire the nature of the call and then connect the caller with the department or individual best fitted to deal with the inquiry. This will apply to all telephone calls made during the daytime. After 5 p.m., and on Saturday afternoons, all day Sundays and public holidays, anyone wishing to telephone the company will find emergency and other listings under British Columbia Electric on page four of the June issue of the telephone directory.

BUDGET IS A STALEMATE

Mr. Dunning, the Minister of Finance, presented his Budget to Parliament without giving any estimate of the effect of its new tariff schedules. The lack of explanation constitutes a precedent in Budget presentations. The obvious conclusion is that Mr. Dunning does not know what its effect will be, and if he does not how is the country expected to reach a conclusion? Viewed from one angle it affords the spectacle of Mr. Dunning, who is a free trader, making a weak effort to satisfy his protectionist opponents. It is a half-hearted attempt, for while the Budget gives protection in some items on the tariff schedule it withdraws it on others. Its general effect may, therefore, very well prove to be a stalemate.

Superficially the Liberal Government is to appeal to the country on a policy which it opposed in the past. That policy, however, it has hedged round with safeguards which are designed to salve the consciences of its Free Trade supporters. It is not a Budget destined to promote the development of our resources, and the need for this is urgent at the present time if we are to conquer unemployment, add to our population and prevent the exodus to the United States which has been going on consistently under Liberal rule at Ottawa. An amusing commentary on the Budget as illustrative of the situation of the Government was contributed by the Member for Mount Royal in the course of the Debate. We quote The Montreal Gazette:

"It is the story of the hunter who told a friend how he had taken his gun and his dog and started out for game. Soon the dog unearthed a rabbit. Off they ran, over the plain, down the glen and up the hill and over the plain again, with the dog steadily gaining. Just as it was about to pounce upon its prey—the rabbit climbed a tree. 'But,' objected the hunter's friend, 'a rabbit cannot climb a tree.' 'I know that,' replied the story-teller, 'but this one had to.' Being very much 'up a tree' with its Budget, the Government is impelled to appeal to the country on a policy it has opposed in the past. Whilst favorable to the principles involved, a majority of the electors may well show by their votes that they do not consider that Mr. Mackenzie King and his colleagues are the right party to carry out such a policy as the Dunning Budget simulates."

ELECTION IN ALBERTA

Some indication of the direction in which the political wind is blowing in Western Canada will be forthcoming by the result of the Alberta elections to be held on June 19. It is taken for granted that the existing Government will be sustained in power, probably on the basis that it enjoys such a large majority. To upset it would require too great a turnover in public sentiment. At the same time there are signs of unrest in Alberta, and chiefly on the ground of the administration of fiscal affairs.

Premier Brownlee's following of United Farmers was returned to power on June 28, 1926. The standing of the parties then was: United Farmers, 43; Liberals, 7; Labor, 5; Conservatives, 4; Independent Labor, 1. It is in the nature of an anomaly in government in Canada that the Conservatives have never been in power in Alberta. They are the one party in that province who have no political sins for which to answer. The weakness of government by the United Farmers is that they answer for and are answerable to only one section of the community. Their legislation is largely confined to agricultural interests, whereas Alberta is becoming industrialized in a variety of other ways.

Under the United Farmers the public debt of Alberta has been increasing rapidly. Their opponents claim that they lack the constructive programme necessary in a young and growing province. The Calgary Herald says Premier Brownlee's Government has engaged in capital expenditures without insuring that the money is well spent. It recalls the failure of the Drury Government in Ontario and how the fiscal blunders of that administration left the province deep in debt. It says that Alberta's class government is pursuing the same road and that class government in Canada cannot persist.

Criticism of this character, if it has sway, indicates at least that Premier Brownlee, even if successful at the polls, is likely to be faced with much stronger opposition than in the last Parliament. The Liberals are led by Captain J. T. Shaw. The Conservative leader is Mr. A. A. McGillivray. Premier Brownlee stands on the Government's record, and particularly emphasizes the fact that there has not been a breath of suspicion against the sincerity, honesty and integrity of his administration. The coming election in Alberta has a significance beyond provincial affairs being held as it will be during a time when a Federal election campaign is in progress.

SPANISH FINANCES

Spain is one of the few countries in Europe which has not stabilized its currency and whose exchange is continually fluctuating. The suspension of specie payment and the gold embargo have made the Spanish peseta an easy prey to speculation. Its fluctuation reflects not only the general economic, but also the political situation of the country. During the war Spain enjoyed a favorable balance of credit trade; the peseta was often quoted above par, and Spain was able to accumulate a large stock of gold. The gold holdings of the Bank of Spain increased from $92,490,000 in 1913 to $472,041,000 at the end of 1919. At the end of the war the trade balance became unfavorable and the peseta declined. From 1921 to 1926 Spain was engaged in the Riff War, which not only caused heavy expenditures but also brought with it internal unrest and led to the establishment of the Dictatorship in 1922. By 1928 it became apparent that economic conditions were not ripe for a return to par.

To prevent a further decline in exchange the Government, early in 1928, intervened and supported the market. In that year, and again in 1929, the Spanish Government established a short-term credit abroad to support the peseta. The decline, however, continued. In January, 1929, the Government appointed a committee to study the possibility of returning to the gold standard. Political difficulties encouraged bear raids on the peseta, with the result that the Government used up all the foreign funds at its immediate disposal and gave up the support. This resulted in a decline of the exchange from 16.29 cents in January, 1929, to 14.13 cents in June of the same year.

The Spanish Government has just authorized a loan of $67,550,000 and, in this connection it is noteworthy that Wall Street has taken about $3,000,000 of the issue. As a matter of fact this is the first time that the American banks have participated in the underwriting of a Spanish loan. That is all to the good from the Spanish viewpoint, for it shows that bankers, who are not accustomed to throw their money away, have confidence in the future of the country. Business Conditions Weekly says: "Finances of Spain seem to be in good shape. The adverse balance of trade is to a considerable extent offset by the invisible exports, such as tourist expenditures and immigrant remittances. The solution of the exchange problem of Spain lies in the adoption of a point at which the peseta should be stabilized, and the use of a part of the excess gold for maintaining the stability of the exchange."

BRITAIN AND EGYPT

The negotiations whereby the Labor Government of Great Britain sought to give Egypt a greater measure of independence have broken down and the status quo remains. The Egyptian delegates who visited London could not agree with the British Government in regard to the future of the Sudan. They sought the abolition, in favor of the Egptians, of the right of the Governor-General of the Sudan to restrict immigration. Differences also arose over the political status of the Sudan and the disposition of British troops. The Labor Government proposed conditions which would have made it difficult, if not impossible, for Great Britain to protect the rights of British subjects in Egypt had an agreement been reached. The proposed treaty was bitterly criticized, particularly because it would have impaired Great Britain's power to protect the Suez Canal.

From the standpoint of Empire communications, and probably also from the standpoint of Egyptian development, it is as well that the negotiations have proved abortive. For this the Egyptians themselves are largely to blame. They were being offered a measure of almost complete independence and they asked for more, which the Labor Government was not prepared to grant.

Whatever Mahatma Ghandi may be he is not a democrat according to the meaning of that word in western civilization. He says, "I would not hesitate to let the minorities govern the country." In the light of modern progress this theory will hardly appeal to the millions of Hindus in India.

CHIAROSCURO

The world is strangely colorless today,
Enveloped in a clinging, misty shroud,
Sombre and beautiful—a nun in gray,
Folded in veils as filmy as a cloud.
As springlike as a pussywillow spray;
Steeples and roofs are nebulous as smoke.
Trees traced as faintly as a cobweb skein;
A swallow's wing seems but a crayon's stroke
Quickly erased, quickly drawn in again.

Why cry for color? Why demand the blue
When days become pale, silvery monochromes?
I once craved rainbows, ravenous as you
For gold and scarlet. Now my fancy roams
To etchings with fastidious delight.
I know the loveliness of black and white.

—Anne Lloyd in The New York Sun.

ON A MODERN NOVEL

Here is no sound but the sound of a hair splitting,
No noise but the noise of a man changing his mind;
And the rending, chrysalis of trivial thought that struggles
In meshes of self-consciousness entwined.

Here is the fetid gloom of a green twilight,
Where witticisms, like forked lightning, play;
And the vicious circle of self, like a mill-wheel turning,
That, lacking grist, must grind itself away.

—Phyllis Hartnoll, in The Observer.

It is the part of a wise man to keep himself today for tomorrow, and not to venture all his eggs in one basket.—Cervantes.

Be not afraid of enthusiasm; you need it; you can do nothing effectually without it.—Guizot.

The grey mare proves the better horse.

Was ever woman in this humor wooed?
Was ever woman in this humor won?

There was a copy of The Colonist in her hand and the fire of battle in her eye when we met her on the street immediately preceding the grand parade on the morning of the Queen's Birthday. She was one of the New Women, although not so very new at that, but still not so very old either and palpably strong and capable from both a physical and mental point of view. She opened fire upon us, and the first discharge was a devastating broadside of verbal shot and shell.

"You have been scoffing and jeering at women, at women in politics, at women in business, at women in social life and in domestic affairs—at women in everything. Yet here you are out with the rest celebrating the anniversary of the birth of one of the most celebrated women of all time, of a woman who was so accomplished a "statesman" that she knew how to put mere men statesmen in their places and wielded the sceptre of Empire more deftly if not actually more vigorously than the great Elizabeth, the arbitrary daughter of the domineering Henry, and was a model wife and mother besides.

"Now look at your own paper and read what the women of England are doing while the men of England are making a mess of everything they undertake from governing the state to maintaining the prestige of their country in sport and in feats of courage and endurance. If you read your own paper you will find therein an account of a mere slip of a girl flying through the air from her own country to Australia, a journey of thousands of miles through tropical storms and fogs, unaccompanied, meeting with accidents and incidents which would have discouraged the strongest of male creatures, with but slight knowledge of the science of navigation, but undismayed and unafraid, landing in triumph in that comparatively unknown country.

"How many men are there in England, that land that was once 'the land of the free and the home of the brave,' capable of doing a thing like that? In the realm of sport, in which the men of England for centuries were supreme, what are the mere men doing to uphold the prestige of their race? They appear to be more interested in watching their neighbors play games than they are in playing games themselves. When they are not drawing doles they are paying out money drawn from the doles to pay others for playing games for their amusement in idle hours.

"Thousands of them paid to see the mere men of England play golf in competition with golfers from the United States, a country in which golf was unknown not so very many years ago, and they had the humiliation (if they are still capable of feelings of humiliation) of seeing their countrymen soundly and fairly beaten. The women of the United States went to England in the apparent belief that the women of England would be just as easy to subdue as the men in England. But the modern women of England are made of sterner stuff than the modern men of England. The American women did not carry all before them when they played golf in England. There was one woman left in England who was better than any woman in the United States, and the woman golf champion is a woman of England.

"Nor is that all. There is a woman in England who is capable of meeting the illustrious Bobby Jones upon level terms and coming within one stroke of keeping even with him upon those terms, and that is more than can be said of any mere man in England with the possible exception of one, and he the son of that now despised class, a lord. And yet you indicate almost daily your belief that the women, not only of England but of Canada, are not as capable as the men, are mentally and physically unworthy of the vote and taking a part in public affairs!

"If you were to ask me what I think about it, I should tell you that if the women were in complete charge of public affairs in England today they could not make a deeper mess of the business of governing than the men have made of it—for although there are women in the Socialist Government, it is the men who are carrying the business of administration and who will be responsible for the mess they have made. The women are taking a greater and increasing part in the private business of the country. They are not making the demands upon the dole the men are making. They are more enterprising and more determined than the men. And if the country should ever reach the point where it will have to fight for its existence, the female of the species will probably prove more dangerous to the enemy than the male, judging by the tendencies of the present times."

Just at this point of the harrangue, there came a sound of music in the air played by a female band, the parade came around the corner, there was a noise of great cheering and tremendous enthusiasm, the copy of The Colonist was flung in our face, the Amazon fitted herself into the procession and we flitted away in a chastened mood to engage in "the demnition grind" which makes no concession to holidays.

CO-OPERATION

Sir—"Patience is a virtue in either a wit or a fool," but there is a logical limit to it that would appear to have been about reached in the matter of the exploitation of the users of potatoes who can't grow them for themselves, for one cause or another.

A potato "pool" that puts up the price of potatoes to around five cents a pound shound rouse the poor consumer to a protest with a punch in it. It should take the form of a boycott of "pool" potatoes—a sort of "hunger strike" so far as potatoes are concerned. But further, in order to discourage the spread of the "pool" epidemic that is afflicting society at this moment, an effort should be made by some of the aged and leisured people that live in Victoria to form a "consumers' pool" to produce, store and distribute not only potatoes, but all the commoner sorts of indigenous vegetables for the meeting of this member's needs at a moderate cost. Such a little social experiment along the lines of co-operative production, preservation and distribution for the meeting of everyday needs in the matter of vegetable food, might have a far-reaching, beneficial effect upon the character of a community now decidedly too individualistic and self-seeking in its behavior to be wholesome.

How about the forming of an amateur gardening association for the setting up or renewing of the acquaintance of human beings with mother earth and a little wholesome, useful manual labor? A suitable plot of ground could be secured from some landowner who still retained some conception of what was the proper use to put land to, besides furnishing sites for houses to be built in days to come. He might be moved to loan it to such an association, some of the members of which would serve without remuneration on a committee of management and horticultural instruction and practice, while others would, for the fun of it and interest in the work, to say nothing of defeating the profiteers in food-stuffs, contribute the bulk of the manual labor and technical skill according to their gifts and leisure.

Will someone better equipped than the writer, with knowledge of the local situation as to places and persons, kindly pursue the subject further, if the apathy of dry rot has not extinguished all initiative in the civic life of a place richly endowed by nature—and where man only is vile, or, let us say, villainously parasitic.

WARD TWO CONSERVATIVES

Sir,—I have been asked by several members of Ward Two Conservative Association to contradict the report in tonight's Times re the meeting held last Thursday to appoint delegates to the convention. The only business transacted was the election of delegates, and neither Mayor Ansomb nor Mr. Wooton's name was mentioned, nor did the meeting break up in disorder.

I may say that Ward Two are quite satisfied with Mr. Plunkett, and when the time comes will give him their unanimous support.

WILLOWS SPORTS

Sir,—I think a word of praise is due to those who made such a success of the sports which were held at the Willows grounds on the afternoon of May 24.

A great deal of credit is due to Mr. Mearns, who so ably organized all the events, and few people realize that a great amount of time and work is entailed.

The judging was very ably taken care of by Major Spurgin and Mr. Scoble, and it was indeed a great pleasure to notice that there was no waiting between any of the events.

This year there were far more people in attendance than ever before, and I feel sure that if we had, say, a Spring, Summer and Fall meeting, they would be well patronized by the people of Victoria.

SYMBOLS

In the garden I find symbols
Of the powers men possess;
There the oak-tree stands for vigor,
And the vine for tenderness.
Roses glow with pride of beauty,
Violets are love alone,
And in radiance of lilies
Perfect purity is shown.

There is yet another garden,
And the lives that flourish there
Aer the flowers gladly blooming
In the Gardener's gentle care;
Are bright flowers faintly showing
Something of the Gardener's grace,
Something of his strength and goodness
In this world's vast garden-place.

NAVAL PACT IS APPROVED BY COMMONS

Ottawa House Supports International Treaty for Limitation and Reduction of Armaments

HON. R. B. BENNETT OFFERS CRITICISM

(Canadian Press)

OTTAWA, May 26.—The House of Commons today approved the international treaty for limitation and reduction of naval armaments. Approval was given after Hon. J. L. Ralston, Minister of National Defence, who was Canada's chief representative at the London Naval Conference, had given a review of proceedings there and interpretation of the terms of the treaty. Prime Minister Mackenzie King moved the resolution of approval and when it carried made a further motion that the treaty be passed on to the Senate for ratification by that chamber.

Hon. Mr. Ralston stated that the real work of the conference was done in informal meetings at the offices of the heads of delegations, although the plenary sessions of the whole conference had been brought more forcibly to the attention of the public.

The success and progress which was recorded in the treaty was due largely to this elastic system.

THE BIG ISSUE

The big issue before the conference was a conflict between two theories of naval limitation, Colonel Ralston explained. One set of powers said limitation should be achieved by assigning to one power a total or global tonnage. Another set of powers wanted limitation by categories. In other words they wanted naval strength broken up into various classes of ships, each of which would be limited.

The discussion of the relative merits of limitation by global tonnage and limitation by categories had gone on all through the conference. It had finally been referred to a committee of experts whose report was adopted, although it was not included in the treaty. The report was to the effect that each power represented at the conference should indicate to the others how it proposed to allocate its global tonnage.

"In other words," said Colonel Ralston, "the principle of global tonnage was adopted but the nations agreed to inform one another as to how they proposed to distribute their tonnage among the different classes of ships."

SOME CRITICISM

The treaty was not approved, however, without some criticism. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Opposition leader, asserting that all parties to the new treaty had signed the Kellogg-Briand Pact, remarked on the apparent inconsistency of the treaties. The Kellogg-Briad Pact had outlawed war. Obviously, if war had been outlawed, the instruments of war should not be constructed by nations which had outlawed it. Why then, the need for this new treaty? Another point he mentioned was that the treaty is only effective for a period of five years. He was pleased, however, with anything which would make it more difficult for the taxpayer to contribute to the cost of armament.

Mr. Bennett uttered a warning that there must always be a "police force" of the seas, and that Canada should play her part in maintaining it.

"THE BIG POLICEMAN"

"Whether we like it or not, we cannot afford to sponge on the 'big policemen' all our lives," he said The "big policeman" had been doing his job for a great many years, added Mr. Bennett. He fancied that the "big policeman" was a little weary.

Neither Mr. J. S. Woodsworth, Labor member for Winnipeg, North Centre, nor Mr. William Irvine, U.F.A. member for Wetaskiwin, felt that the London Naval Conference had been a great success. Mr. Woodsworth doubted whether the security of Canada had been increased by the conclusions arrived at. Mr. Irvine said that all the conference had succeeded in doing was to make war a sort of gentlemen's game. One nation said to the other, "I will shoot you with a revolver above a certain calibre, and you, in turn, must promise to shoot me with a revolver above a certain calibre."

VANCOUVER PIONEER RESIDENT SUCCUMBS

VANCOUVER, May 26.—Another of Vancouver's pioneers has passed away in the person of Mr. William Ferris, many years curator of the Vancouver Museum and the last survivor of the original founders of that institution. Death occurred on Sunday morning at the family residence.

The deceased was in his ninety-second year, having been born in Oxford, England, in 1839. He arrived in Vancouver in 1888. Greatly interested in art, Mr. Ferris, with the late Captain and Mrs. H. A. Mellon, and a few other pioneers, founded the Art, Historical and Scientific Association by which the Vancouver Museum was established. For several years Mr. Ferris gave drawing lessons to support the museum, the City Council first recognizing the worth of these efforts in 1908 by an annual grant. For fourteen years Mr. Ferris acted as curator, and when he retired in 1925 he was appointed emeritus by the association.

The late Mr. Ferris is survived by a family of three sons and six daughters.

The time used is Pacific Standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the tables, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of lower low water.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Esquimalt drydock at any tide, add 18.8 feet to the height of high water as above given.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Banshees drydock add 30 feet to the height of high water as above given.

BOYS BAN LOVE THEMES

When 300 school children of Dumfries, Scotland, were asked recently "What kind of moving pictures do you not like?" 98 per cent of the boys said, "Love," and 94 per cent of the girls replied, "War, murder or fighting." Sixty per cent said they went to the movies once a week, and 20 per cent twice a week. Only three children said they never went.

GREAT BRITAIN OFFERS LARGE HOME MARKET

Hon. J. E. Fenton Hopes to Have Hon. J. Scullin Visit Canada on Way Home From Conference

REGRETS ONE-SIDED TRADE BALANCE

If parts of the British Commonwealth of Nations do not go forward together in a united trade policy which will benefit them mutually, individual units of the Empire will be forced to co-operate commercially with other countries.

Such was the statement of Hon. James E. Fenton, Australian Minister of Trade and Customs, in the course of an address to the Canadian Club at Hotel Vancouver yesterday. He will speak to the Canadian Club of Victoria tonight.

In the course of an appeal for better trade relations between Canada and Australia, with particular reference to the fact that Australia has the short end of the trade balance, Mr. Fenton promised in Vancouver that he would endeavor to persuade the Prime Minister of his country to visit the Dominion on his way home from the Imperial Conference in London this Autumn.

LARGE HOME MARKET

"The time has come when we, as different parts of the Empire, must go forward together—as a matter of fact, we should have done it some time ago," said the Australian minister. He went on to speak of the common blood which binds parts of the Empire together, and emphasized the fact that Great Britain has more than sentimental ties to offer the Dominions—she has a great market of 45,000,000 people.

"We in Australia are somewhat perturbed," said Mr. Fenton, "because you Canadians are not sending us enough dollars for our products. I need only mention the disparity in the trade figures to convince you of that. Together, Canada and Australia represent almost half the Empire, and as such important factors surely, they can do something more for each other.

INTEREMPIRE TRADE

Mr. Fenton expressed the conviction that the coming Imperial Conference will do much to increase interempire trade.

He spoke of Australia's policy of state ownership and its present firm determination not to borrow much money from other countries. They are determined that interest paid for loans shall be paid in their own country.

Of the products which Canada might buy from Australia, Mr. Fenton mentioned canned goods, dried fruits and sugar. He said that Canada might well even up the present one-sided trade balance by increased purchases of these commodities.

PROMINENT MEN TO SHARE ITINERARY

Dairymen to Make Tour in Central Part of Province Next Month

The British Columbia Dairymen's Association this year will hold a series of meetings throughout the central part of the province.

Members of the directorate of the association, accompanied by small parties, including a number of ladies, will start on the tour from Clinton on Friday and get back to Kamloops on the return on June 11.

The meetings for the most part will be of an informal character. In several instances picnics have been arranged so that the opportunity for becoming better acquainted may be afforded. The idea of the tour is to allow the directors the opportunity of meeting breeders and dairymen in the newer parts of the province and confer with them on problems connected with the industry. Informal addresses will be delivered by members of the party at the various gatherings.

The Minister of Agriculture, Hon. W. Atkinson, will accompany the party over at least a part of the route. There will also be present Mr. W. H. Hicks, superintendent of the Agassiz Experimental Farm, who is president of the association; Mr. H. Rive, the secretary; Mr. R. V. Hurford, Courtenay, director; Mr. J. W. Berry, M.P.P., Langley, director, and former president; Mr. W. J. Park, Vancouver, director; Mr. W. Fraser, Kootenay Bay, director; Mr. W. R. Powley, Winnfield, director, and Mr. P. H. Moore, Essondale, director.

Dr. W. R. Gunn, the head of the livestock division of the department, who is now taking a number of dairy cows into the Peace River district, it is expected, may join the party before it returns, at some point on the way.

Leaving Clinton at 9 o'clock on the morning of May 30 the first stop will be made at Quesnel. The following day the party will proceed to Vanderhoof for lunch. On Sunday, June 1, the party will proceed to Burns Lake, where a meeting will be held on Monday.

Other meetings on the trip will be at Telkwa on June 3, a picnic; Wistaria, June 5; Vanderhoof, June 6, a picnic; Prince George, June 7, a picnic; Quesnel, June 9, a picnic; Forest Grove, June 11, and back to Ashcroft or Kamloops the following day.

The party will make the tour by means of automobiles.

Owing to an oversight a mistake was made in handing in one of the names of the young ladies who graced the B.C. Electric float in the May Day parade. The name of Miss Margaret Foster was given in error for that of Miss Margaret Fawcett. Miss Fawcett's two companions were Miss Marion Halls and Miss Barbara Miller.

SCRIPTURAL CULTURE IS IMPORTANT

Inspiring Address by Rev. W. A. Guy at Annual Meeting of Bible Society Members

BEST-SELLING BOOK IS STILL THE BIBLE

"The Scriptures as a Cultural Agency," was the subject of an inspiring address delivered by Rev. W. A. Guy, pastor of Oak Bay United Church, at the annual meeting of the Victoria Auxiliary of the British and Foreign Bible Society, in the auditorium of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church last evening.

The speaker stated it was necessary to bring all the cultural power of the Scriptures into our daily lives, in order to counteract the unhealthy trend of present-day conditions. There was a lack of culture in every stratum of society today, and the Bible was not used widely. Our grandfathers might envy our motor cars, radios and other modern conveniences, but they would never admit that any or all of them could be satisfactory substitutes for personal goodness. He appreciated, he said, that the time had many distractions to offer, and that finding a solution to existing conditions was a problem of considerable magnitude.

There was something remarkable, however, in the progress the Bible Society was making in distributing the Word of God, Mr. Guy continued. It was still the best seller, and he quoted statistics to show that for every second of every day in the year a Bible was being sold. Its teachings were worthy of being treasured and guarded, for, if they pass from our society, they will be adopted by the people of Eastern countries and incorporated into their beliefs.

"Nothing can take the place of the Scriptures," concluded the speaker; "and strong is the bone and the sinew of the man into whose soul has flowed the cultural influence of the Word of God, which has been the inspiration for the great leaders of literature, progress and reform throughout the past."

In the unavoidable absence of the president, Very Rev. Dean Quainton, Rev. Henry Knox, of Emmanuel Baptist Church, presided. In his remarks he voiced the appreciation of the meeting for the good work the president had accomplished in the past year, and could see indications of a strong return to spiritual guidance in the near future.

The secretary, Mr. R. G. Howells, reported on the work accomplished since the last annual meeting, stating the society had no occasion to blush in connection with its progress. A lot of preliminary work has been done, and results of a substantial character could now be looked for.

Mr. Thomas Humphries, the treasurer, reported on the financial status of the local auxiliary, the collections for the year ending December 31, 1929, amounting to $1,256.40, and the expenses $42.23, leaving a balance of $1,214.17, of which sum $1,210 had been forwarded to headquarters at Vancouver.

The election of officers for the year 1930-31, resulted as follows: Honorary president, Mr. Arthur Lee; president, Very Rev. Dean Quainton; vice-president, Rev. W. G. Wilson, D.D.; secretary, Mr. R. G. Howells; treasurer, Mr. Thomas Humphries; executive committee, the above-named officers with the following: Mrs. Middleton, Messrs. D. D. Muir, T. W. Bird, T. McNaughton and Dr. W. Russell. All the city ministers are ex-officio vice-presidents.

Documents seized in recent raids on various Communist quarters were said by the official to prove the truth of his statements. He also asserted that statements of soldiers in the Communist armies had supported his contention.

BRIGADES OF TROOPS

The Foreign Office spokesman said Communists were centreing their efforts on the execution of raids on Kuling and Luishan, Summer resorts near Kiukiang, Northern Kiangsi Province, where upwards of 100 foreigners are residing and where many more are preparing to go during the hot weather. The official said, however, that the Nationalist Government had sent three brigades of troops to these areas.

He expressed the opinion that foreigners were not endangered. Despite this view, British and American and other foreign officials recently warned their respective nationals that they considered the Summer resorts unsafe, as well as anywhere else in the interior of China.

The Nationalist Government is generally believed to be unable effectively to oppose the so-called Communist elements, since the rebel movement by the Northern militarists requires most of its efforts.

COAST SERVICE PURSER RETURNS

Mr. A. H. Bird Home From Acting as Assistant Cruise Director of Empress of Scotland

MR. A. H. BIRD

Mr. A. H. Bird, purser in the B.C. Coast Steamship Service, has returned from the Mediterranean cruise. He arrived in the city on Sunday morning.

Mr. Bird has covered over 20,000 miles during his four months' absence, and has visited more than twelve different countries, ending with a month's visit in the Old Country. There he was able to renew association with relatives whom he has not seen for twenty-seven years.

This itinerary was of great interest, and material benefit, and Mr. Bird expresses his appreciation to the Ocean Service for the opportunity to see a large part of the romantic countries of Southern Europe, and Northern Africa.

Mr. Bird, who has had many years' association with the B.C. Coast Steamship Service, was assistant cruise director on the Empress of Scotland, which left New York on February 3, with a duration of seventy-three days. The reason of his choice was particularly gratifying to his friends, because he was selected for his courtesy on the Alaskan service of the B.C. Coast fleet.

The charm of this tour in the Latin countries, in their beautiful architectural triumphs, in the Levant, with an opportunity of seeing Palestine and Syria, a short visit to Egypt, and thence back by way of France to Southampton, is such that Mr. Bird will have a memory of pleasure to look back upon extending over the whole storied coasts of the Mediterranean.

Wakeful Nights From Indigestion

Nothing wears you out more quickly than a period of wakeful, restless nights or fitful slumber marred by unpleasant dreams. The cause is often digestive disturbance and the remedy is a little "Bisurated" Magnesia after the last meal or before going to bed. This calms the stomach, neuthalizes excess acid, banishes the fermenting unrest and induces healthy, restful slumber by the sensible means of producing peaceful, normal digestion. "Bisurated" Magnesia is obtainable at any drug store in either powder or tablet form, and a simple trial will prove its value beyond question.

SUPPORTS WORK OF DELEGATION

President Herbert Hoover Tells Newspaper Men He Will Have Senate Ratify London Pact

BOLD GESTURE FOR NAVAL DISARMAMENT

By KENNETH CLARK
(Canadian Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, D.C., May 26.—President Hoover has thrown down the gage of battle in behalf of the work accomplished by his delegation to the London Disarmament Conference. He will have the London Pact ratified by the Senate, "if it takes all Summer." Telling a hundred newspapermen of his determination to call a special session of Congress if the Senate could not ratify at the regular session, the President turned from his desk and said: "I think that's all for today."

The correspondents laughed with pleasure because they understood the President had made the bold gesture of authority for which many have been waiting.

The presidential announcement apparently has a significance more nearly touching Canadian interest. If Mr. Hoover takes a firm line on the London Pact, why should he not do something about the Hawley-Smoot tariff?

It is generally understood the President is opposed to the extremes in the bill which, by all signs and protests, will be ready for his pen early in June. In spite of the fact that the country, as a whole, dislikes the bill, and in spite of the fact that the administration is sharply aware of world disfavor, it is not considered at all likely Mr. Hoover will refuse to sign.

But there is a persistent report that he will use the flexible provision to reduce, by presidential decree, the more absurd rates in the bill. A president has never vetoed a tariff bill. Only one president has ever, under the flexible power, revised rates downward, and those rates were upon paint brush handles.

Mr. Hoover is considered to be too good a Republican to nullify sixteen months of work by a Republican Congress, but he is an economist. He has insisted upon retaining the power of revising rates upward or downward 50 per cent, and apparently, from his pronouncement upon ratification of the London Pact, is a president to be reckoned with.

ENACT CLAUSES OF NEW BY-LAW

PLUMBING BY-LAW AS AMENDED PASSES COMMITTE IN CITY COUNCIL

Final Reading to Come Up Two Weeks Hence—Provisions Made for Apprentices

The Plumbing By-Law, with amendments to make specific and explicit provisions for apprentices and for continuing the licences of master plumbers while appealing against cancellations, was considered and approved by the City Council in committee last night. It was then given three readings, and will come up for its final reading two weeks hence.

Alderman Smith, in moving consideration of the bylaw, said that he wished to correct some misunderstandings that had been created. It had been said, for instance, that in Vancouver the by-law had led to legal actions, and he had written for information to civic officials in that city, and he read their replies, which stated that no such results had followed, but that on the contrary general satisfaction had been given both to the plumbing trade and to the public. Alderman Smith went on to say that the master plumbers and the journeymen plumbers of this city had both expressed their approval of the measure. The effect, they were confident, would be to lower costs without decreasing quality, but on the contrary guaranteeing and improving quality, and thus lead to an increased volume of business.

THREE CLAUSES PASS

Alderman Peden was willing to accept the by-law with the exception of the clauses relating to the board of examiners. He moved that they be laid on the table to give further time for their study. Alderman Litchfield took the same position. Alderman Mara and others held that the by-law had been before them for some time and should be proceeded with. It would not come up for final reading until two weeks hence, and that should give time enough for further examination if that were needed.

Tonight a free illustrated character analysis lecture and readings from head, hand and voice will be given by Professor Mobius, at the Conservative Hall. All are invited.

It is estimated that 3,000 passengers were brought to the city from Vancouver, Seattle, Anacortes and Port Angeles on May 24.

Owner of Launch—Mr. Richard Giles, 3150 Carroll Street, was the owner of the small cabin launch Audrey, smashed to pieces on rocks off the Home Oil Company's premises on Saturday. Washington, San Diego, Cal.; Keith Hodgkinson, Ahousat; George Wall, Vancouver; Frank Marlow Carter, Vancouver; Frank Heay, West Bay, Gambier Island; and Ed. Mallandaine, Creston.

Wharf Collapses—Walter Dunham, thirteen, was thrown into the water late Sunday afternoon, when part of the old Victoria Chemical Company's wharf collapsed near the Alaska-Washington Airways of British Columbia landing floats. A six-year-old boy was also caught between the planks when the weight of a number of spectators proved too much for the rotted structure. Messrs. S. T. Sehl and Fred McGregor rescued the boys. The dock was barricaded yesterday to prevent another mishap.

At Mount Tolmie—Three thousand people attended the service at Mount Tolmie on Sunday afternoon, which was arranged under City Temple auspices, the Fairfield Choral Society having charge of musical arrangements. Rev. Clem Davies spoke on the theme of harmony, pointing out that as unity in music was necessary to secure results so harmony in national affairs, for which the League of Nations was striving, was of great importance. Colonel Peck, V.C., called the veterans present to the salute while the "Last Post" was sounded. Major W. Harry Watts acted as musical director, and had the assistance of Messrs. J. Butler and Harold Davis in the musical arrangements.

SUCCUMBS FROM BURNS

BRANDON, Man., May 26.—Two children, Joey and Sanda Williamson, aged 3 1-2 and 1 1-2 years, respectively, children of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Williamson, of Los Angeles, Calif., died in hospital this morning from burns received last night when the gasoline stove in their tent at a local tourist camp exploded. The Williamsons had just arrived from the South and had left the children asleep in the tent while they prepared a meal in the camp dining-hall. Two other children and a maid were asleep in the auto. The mother is in hospital suffering from shock and the father is also a patient. Both his hands were burned.

What the New Mode Decrees for Wear on All Occasions

FIVE changes a day are advised for the young woman who would be properly attired the whole day through. Dame Fashion has ordered that she must make a series of rapid changes according to the clock at various periods, from breakfast to bedtime. The illustration above, from left to right, show transformations. First comes milady's checkered morning ensemble of smart cut with white lace collar and cuffs, which is smart at 10 a.m. At 11:30 a.m. she dons this navy blue tailored suit, which is also quite appropriate for afternoon wear on the street. Then comes the sports costume of belted gray tweed that affords perfect freedom on the tennis court and golf links during the early afternoon. At 5 o'clock milady dons her tea gown. It has a high waistline and four-tiered skirt and is set off by long black gloves, and a close-fitting black hat to match. For evening wear Dame Fashion advocates this lace ruffled gown, which may caress the ground but does not sweep it. Gloves here, too, are necessary additions for that added touch of ultra-smartness.

Blue Triangle Club

Members of the Blue Triangle Club had a most enjoyable outing on Thursday afternoon. By the kind invitation of Mrs. Higgs, a picnic was arranged and took place on the beach near her home at Sooke. After tea, games were played in the garden, and later a bonfire was made on the sands, where the guests reveled in a "wiener roast." Songs of old-time melodies were sung.

TODAY'S RECIPE

GOOSEBERRY Fool — A very delicious dessert, and one which is seasonable just now, may be made by boiling or steaming gooseberries (the quantity desired) in a very little water. When quite soft remove the fruit from the fire and after it has become almost cold, add sugar to taste and rub through a coarse sieve. Just before serving (cold) add whipped cream, beat all together to a fluff and serve. If the sugar is added when the fruit is almost cold, you will require less than when hot.—Prudence.

CONCERT PLANNED BY TWO YOUNG ARTISTS

Mrs. T. H. Johns and Miss Dorothy Morton to Be Heard in Recital at Shrine Auditorium

What promises to be an event of unusual interest to all lovers of music in Victoria is the recital to be given by Mrs. T. H. Johns, soprano, and Miss Dorothy Morton, pianist, who will present a joint recital in the Shrine Auditorium on Monday, June 2, at 8:30 p.m. The recital is given under the distinguished patronage of Chief Justice and Mrs. J. A. Macdonald and Mayor and Mrs. Anscomb, together with the Ladies' Musical Club of Victoria.

Mrs. Johns is a pupil of Mr. Gideon Hicks and possesses a rich soprano voice of wide range and beautiful color. Her programme of songs is of such a varied type as reveals the ambition of a rising singer and offers a range and variation of style that includes both the masters of classical music and the latest composers of modern song. Mrs. Johns will present songs composed by Bach, Haydn, Bizet, Franz Richard Strauss, Puccinni, Rachumaninoff and Healy Willan. Mrs. Johns will be accompanied by Miss Beatrice Hicks, who has delighted Victoria audiences so many times with her sympathetic and delightful assistance in vocal recitals.

Miss Morton has shown outstanding ability as a pianist and has distinguished herself in musical recitals upon several occasions. She will offer some fine compositions in a varied programme, which will include such composers as Chopin, Brahms, Frank la Forge, Granados and Palmgren. The entire programme is of an ambitious character and reflects great credit on the two young artists, indicating both to be musical students who take their work with serious attempt to offer the public a recital worthy of the patronage of all promoters of good music in the city.

YOUNG WIFE STRENGTHENED

After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Bancroft, Ontario—"When I first took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I had been married about a year and my strength was leaving me on account of my condition. I was only 19 and it was my first child. My mother told me I needed something to steady my nerves and a girl chum told me to take the Vegetable Compound. I am so thankful I did because it strengthened my whole system and now I feel perfectly well and have a sweet little baby boy."—MRS. J. B. STALKER, Bancroft, Ontario.

HIRED GIRL IS ON THE WARPATH

Miss Jones, Domestic Employe, No Longer Willing to Be Designated Maid

DETROIT, May 26. — Mistresses all over the country take warning —the hired girl is on the warpath.

Gathered at the Industrial Group Conference of the National Y.W.C.A. Convention here, those quiet girls who are known as "the maid," the "hired girl," or just plain "Annie," came out from behind the anonymity of their uniforms and drew up an indictment of mistresses all over the land.

No longer is the term "maid" acceptable, they say. In its place has come the "domestic employee," or "Miss Brown," or "Miss Jones," whatever the case may be. And mistresses who have their employees' welfare at heart will act accordingly.

Their grievances, the girls say, are these:

They can't get anywhere with the stigma of "hired girl" attached to them forever. "Maid," isn't a whole lot better, and is at the very bottom of the social scale.

They don't like uniforms because it puts them so far apart from people who employ them.

They hate eating alone, as eating should be a kind of social affair, pleasant and jolly.

They haven't any place to entertain the boy friends.

They haven't any assurance that they can have their regular Thursday evening off, and, above all they don't like having to use the back door.

The answer to all this, they declare, is that a regular business relationship between employer and employee should be esablished, with regular hours, just like the stenographer. No more, they say, do they want extra errands after hours.

"Our whole happiness," one of the girls said, "depends upon our employer, and when she knows this, why can't she treat us as employees, the same as her husband does the people who work for him?"

Two is company. Three means sending the maid out for another loaf of bread.

ALICE WHITE explains why some girls are so Enchanting

ALICE WHITE, petite First National star, in the bathroom created especially for her in Hollywood. She says: "Lux Toilet Soap gives my skin that peach-bloom smoothness that is so important to a girl's charm."

Alice White

"WHEN a girl is fascinating," says dainty Alice White, whose vibrant charm carried her so swiftly to stardom on the screen, "you may be sure of one thing. Her skin is lovely!

"Beautiful skin always attracts. It is certainly the most important charm any girl can have.

"In Hollywood, you know, the directors all found out long ago that if a girl is to win millions of admirers on the screen, her skin must have that peach-bloom smoothness that is so ravishing.

LORETTA YOUNG
"It's very satisfactory!"

"The glaring close-up lights would reveal even the slightest imperfection in the skin. And so, of course, every star in Hollywood guards her complexion most carefully.

"So when I say we use Lux Toilet Soap—almost all of us—you may be sure we think it is a splendid soap. Such soothing lather, and it leaves the skin so exquisitely smooth and soft.

"It is such a simple way to keep the skin lovely! Any girl can follow it, with the same good results."

9 out of 10 Lovely Stars use it—in Hollywood—on Broadway—in Europe

Of the 521 important actresses in Hollywood, including all stars, 511 are devoted to Lux Toilet Soap. All the great film studios have made it the official soap for their dressing rooms!

The lovely Broadway stage stars, too, have discovered that Lux Toilet Soap gives their skin just the gentle care that is required.

And now the European stars are using this fragrant white soap! You, too, will want to try it. Order several cakes—today.

Miss Agnes Macphail To Seek Re-election

DURHAM, Ont., May 26. — Miss Agnes Macphail, the only woman ever elected to the Dominion House of Commons and the sitting member for Southeast Grey, was chosen at the riding convention of the United Farmers of Ontario here on Saturday as the party's candidate in the forthcoming general election.

Addressing the meeting, Miss Macphail said she had voted against the budget and was "proud of the fact." Much propaganda, she said, had been broadcast on the benefits that would accrue to the country from the Dunning budget. "But," she added, "I am sorry to observe the impression this propaganda for protection has had on the farmers. I am afraid they have been misled."

Fashion Fancies

By Marie Belmont

Zipping fashionably through the rain is an easy matter if one has a waterproof coat with a zipper closing. To say that this item of the wardrobe is dryer this season has double significance for the Spring raincoat is both smart and practical. Gay silks such as rayon shantung and crepe de Chine are rubberized to develop these coats, as are also a multitude of other materials, even printed cottons. Models follow closely the lines and sartorial details of formal dress and sports coats, as illustrated by that sketched above.

Bright blue rubberized crepe de Chine individualizes this coat, with its snug little double collar, and nipped-in waist. But most appealing of all its assets is the zipper closing which runs down the front from the collar to the hemline, insuring protection to the daintiest frock that may hover beneath.

The late Ambassador Walter Page was formerly editor of The World's Work, and like all editors was obliged to refuse a great many stories. A lady once wrote him:

"Sir,—You sent back, last week, a story of mine. I know that you did not read the story, for as a test I had pasted the pages 18, 19 and 20 together, and the story came back with these pages still pasted, so that I know you are a fraud and turn down stories without reading same."

Mr. Page wrote back:

"Madam: At breakfast, when I open an egg, I don't need to eat the whole egg to discover it's bad."

"TORCH SINGERS" LEADER TO SHOW

Dominion Theatre Presents Attractive Entertainment for Three Days

The king of "torch singers" and night club entertainers; the master of stage comedy and Broadway wisecrackery; the dean of song writers; three of the screen's most popular beauties; two hundred dancers; dialogue by a master of wit—and all this assembled by one of the screen's foremost directors.

Sounds like an advance ballyhoo for a circus, doesn't it? But put it all together and its spells "Puttin' on the Ritz," the United Artists' picture now the feature attraction at the Dominion Theatre today and Wednesday.

The king of singers, and, incidentally, the star of the picture, is Harry Richman, who has been hypnotizing customers of the George White "Scandals" with his golden voice to the extent of having them follow him, after the show, to his "Club Richman," heedless of cover charge, just to hear him sing again.

James Gleason, who writes a new stage comedy hit whenever he can find a few idle hours, and who has "Is Zat So," "The Shannons of Broadway" and others to his credit, lends his acting ability and his extemporaneous humor to a comedy role in the picture.

The bobolink, one of our common Summer resident birds, spends his Winters chiefly in Northwestern Argentina. Also known as the reedbird, he is described as "a bird with a dual personality—welcome minstrel of the meadows when nesting, dread scourge of the rice fields when travelling." The bobolink leaves Canada for South America, at the end of his Summer season in the North, by way of Florida.

OPERA FAVORITE NOW ON SCREEN

Alice Gentile Plays Big Role in "Song of the Flame" at Capitol

Alice Gentile, grand opera favorite, appears in First National's big, spectacular screen version of the operetta, "Song of the Flame," which opened yesterday at the Capitol Theatre for a six days' engagement. In this picture she appears with Alexander Gray, Bernice Claire, Noah Berry, Inez Courtney, Bert Roach and other favorites of stage and screen.

"Song of the Flame" is the first movie spectacle of epic size since the birth of the talkies. It deals with the Russian revolution, and while it contains much singing and dancing, these come logically in the course of the plot action. The story deals with the love of a fair revolutionist, for a price of Polish blood.

Alan Crosland directed the picture, which was adapted from the Hammerstein and Harbach operetta by Gordon Rigby. It is filmed completely in Technicolor.

COLUMBIA THEATRE "The Lodger," the Ivor Novello picture, now at the Columbia Theatre, is a mystery drama, which through the imagination and skill of the producer, holds the interest in a remarkable degree. Many mysterious murders have startled London, and the lodger falls under suspicion. The way in which the evidence against the lodger is relentlessly and logically built up maintains the closest interest until the very end.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE Will Rogers is both heard and seen in the Fox Movietone comedy drama, "They Had to See Paris," his first all-talking picture, which opened an engagement at the Playhouse Theatre yesterday. It is adapted from Homer Croy's widely-read story. The dialogue was written by Owen Davis, Sr. Supporting Rogers are Marguerite Churchill, Fifi Dorsay, a French actress, and Owen Davis, Jr.

COLISEUM THEATRE Frankie Darro, child of the stage, who was doing handsprings and backflips at an age when many a child is just starting kindergarten, has the tremendously important "kid" part in "The Rainbow Man," which is now showing at the Coliseum Theatre. "The Rainbow Man" stars Eddie Dowling, Broadway's favorite son.

AUTOING NUN A SENSATION

Much interest has been aroused in Europe by the action of Sister Hirlanda Farmandy in taking back to Hungary from America an automobile and applying at Sopron for a driver's licence. She is the first nun in Europe to drive her own car, and where she has appeared she has caused a sensation. One writer asks how long it will be before sisters go about their errands of mercy in airplanes. An editorial in a London newspaper on the subject says, "Religion and science do not blend in Europe. The mediaeval humility and habit of the nun would appear to be out of place among gears, brakes, petrol and speeding. And yet the practical affairs of the church, like those of the world, must move with the times."

LAST ISSUE OF PAPER PRINTED

Historic Acadian Recorder Had Influential Voice for Over Century

By BERTON E. ROBINSON

(Special to The Colonist. Copyright, 1930.)

HALIFAX, N.S., May 26. — After one hundred and thirteen years of continuous publication, the famous Acadian Recorder, of Halifax, went to press for the last time on May 10, according to announcement made recently by the administrators of the estate of the late C. C. Blackadar, owner and editor of The Recorder for over sixty years. With its passing, an influential and widely-known voice in the affairs of the Dominion for over a century will be silenced.

The Recorder was founded in 1813 by Anthony H. Holland, who conducted the affairs of the paper until 1820. From 1820 until 1824 the journal was managed by Holland & Company, and during the next thirteen years by P. J. Holland. It was during this time that the first sheet of wood pulp paper ever made, the produce of a Nova Scotian inventor, was received and commented upon by The Recorder. In 1837 control passed to H. W. Blackadar and John English, and in 1863, four years before Confederation, complete control went to Mr. Blackadar. From that day until the present time the paper has been solely owned and managed by a Blackadar, the last being the late C. C. Blackadar.

Some unusual features marked The Recorder. Although it was an afternoon paper, it was always printed on Dominion Day, contrary to the custom of Halifax newspapers. This was an expression of disapproval of Confederation on the part of the owner. Type has always been set by hand, and an out-of-date press has been used to the present day, because Mr. Blackadar did not wish to install modern machinery and so put many old employees out of jobs.

The Recorder has seen Halifax grow from a small town to a city, and has lived through history-making epochs in Canada. For some time the leading journal in British North America, The Recorder is one of the historic landmarks of Eastern Canada.

GRASSHOPPER PEST

To Give Effect to Legislative Action Taken at Last Session of Provincial House

The Minister of Agriculture, Hon. W. Atkinson, has had prepared the necessary regulations governing the grasshopper control legislation passed by the Legislature at the last sitting of the House. Already, under the authority of the act, and the rules set out in the regulations, certain sections of the province are organizing for the combatting of this dread pest of the farmers.

In parts of Nicola and Merritt there has been trouble and the farmers in the affected districts are organizing to fight the grasshoppers.

Under the regulations the farmers organize under the act and define the district over which it is proposed to operate. A committee is named to consist of five members, four of whom are named by the farmers, and one by the Minister of Agriculture. The committee is authorized to make estimates of the amount of poison bait which will be required in the area covered, and will in due course acquaint the department with the needs, when this will be supplied by the department.

The committee likewise sees that the staff uses the poison bait as duly instructed, and carries out the work properly. The costs connected with the work is subject to an assessment raised upon the farmers in the district affected, and covers all the expenditures carried out under the provisions of the act.

REGARDED as one of the important developments in air transportation, the Burnelli all-wing all-metal, twenty-passenger aeroplane is now being fitted with engines and will make a trial flight from New York to Toronto, Ont., within the next two weeks. The most distinctive feature of the Burnelli machine is the airfoil contoured fuselage. Mr. Vincent J. Burnelli, inventor of the aeroplane, and view of the machine, are shown in photograph here.

QUEEN HEADS MOVIE COMPANY

Queen Maria is president of the new Soremar film section of the Regina Maria company, which has been organized to introduce the production of motion pictures in Rumania. Feature films now under way include "Symphony of Love," starring Vivian Gibson and Grit Haid, who are supported by Rumanian actors. "Duty and Sacrifice" has an all-Rumanian cast. Soremar will also produce a Rumanian weekly review. A cameraman, accompanied by Queen Maria and Princess Ileana on their recent Oriental trip and filmed landscapes on the way.

INTERIOR TO HAVE OWN EXHIBITION

Armstrong and Spillamacheen Unite to Establish Provincial Exhibition

Word has been received at the office of the Minister of Agriculture which insures the development of a much more pretentious exhibition at Armstrong than has been held in the past. For some time there has been a move in that district to have the Fall Fair annually held in Armstrong converted into what would be classified as a provincial exhibition.

In order to qualify for the grant of $3,500 from the departmental vote for the purpose, it became necessary on the part of the city of Armstrong and the municipality of Spillamacheen, the interested corporations, to provide for new buildings of a sufficiently commodious character to take care of the exhibits.

This has been provided by the city of Armstrong voting $10,000 for the purpose, and the rural municipalities concerned have passed the necessary by-law covering the expenditures.

The Interior Provincial Exhibition will be the name of the new Fall display, which will be held in Armstrong under the new arrangements.

Lord Dewar made almost any speech he delivered brilliant with epigram. He used this method for the construction of a common sense philosophy of happiness.

Here are some famous "Dewarisms":

"The surest way to be happy is to get so busy that you have no time to be unhappy."

"Play fair, be square, and you will find more sport in living and less fear of dying."

"Success is merely a matter of buying your experience cheap and selling it at profit!"

On traffic dangers—"London is a city of the quick and the dead. Motor cars are increasing by leaps and bounds. Pedestrians are surviving by the same process."

Many a bachelorship is wrecked in a permanent wave."

"Marriage is a committee of two, with power to add to their number."

"Life is made up of trials, with an occasional conviction."

"So let us live our lives that the undertaker will be the only one to rejoice when we die."

DEMAND GREAT FOR UP-ISLAND RESORT FOLDERS

Publicity Bureau Official Believes Victorians Will Holiday on Island This Summer

INQUIRIES INDICATE BIG TOURIST TRADE

"There is a great demand for Up-Island resort folders this Spring," Mr. F. Gioima, of the Publicity Bureau, told The Colonist yesterday afternoon. "This indicates that a large number of our own citizens will spend their holidays on Vancouver Island this year, either camping out or patronizing the many desirable stopping places scattered by stream, lake, woodland and seashore.

"Judging from the many inquiries received since the beginning of May, it would appear that the Island will enjoy a greater influx of tourists even than last year," continued Mr. Gioima. "The number has been increasing daily, and on Saturday, May 24, sixty-two visitors called at the bureau offices and up until noon today, fifty-eight had been registered, the majority of them being tourists.

"Reports from Up-Island resorts at Cowichan, Cameron and Sproat Lakes, go to show that the trout fishing is exceptionally good with both spoon and fly, while Brentwood and Qualicum report good catches of salmon."

Five deaths from parrot disease have occurred at Jarrow, England, recently.

The late William Rockefeller used to tell with delight a story illustrative of the financial genius of his famous brother, John. When John was a little fellow, a so-called Indian doctor visited the town with a cure-all. To get trade started, he took out a bright silver dollar, and said he would auction it off.

"How much am I bid?" he asked, "for this bright, new silver dollar?"

But the crowd was cautious, silent, suspicious. No bids were heard.

"How much am I bid?" shouted the Indian doctor again. "Come on, gents; a nickel, a dime?"

"I'll bid a nickel," piped up John D. Rockefeller at last.

"The dollar is yours, boy," said the doctor, "hand up your nickel."

"Take it out of the dollar," piped little John D., "and gimme 95 cents change."

The Story Behind the Play

By J. J. GELLER

"THE PROPHET"

When Giacomo Meyerbeer witnessed the overwhelming reception of "The Huguenots" on the night of February 26, 1836, after paying an assessment of 30,000 francs for his tardiness in delivering the score, he was immediately besieged with countless offers for new operas. That same year Eugene Scribe, the most prolific French librettist and dramatist of the age, who had furnished the plot for "The Huguenots," submitted two more librettos to Meyerbeer. These were "The Prophet" and "L'Africaine."

The secret of Scribe's amazing fecundity for evolving plots was his faculty for extracting forgotten episodes in history and dramatizing them for the theatrical and operatic stages. While combing the history of Germany and Holland he seized upon the bloody religious uprising in 1555 which resulted in the occupation of Munster by the Anabaptists under the leadership of John of Leyden. It was only natural for Scribe to lift this episode from the pages, inasmuch as the massacre of Huguenots had served so successfully for Meyerbeer's opera. He reasoned that another incident treating of religous strife might be suitable for the grand operatic stages. Hence he wrote "The Prophet."

Meyerbeer considered Scribe as the most capable librettist and never questioned a text submitted by him. All of his libretto displayed a strong melodramatic and spectacular technique which lifted them far above the competitive works of his contemporaries.

Before the composer co-operated with Scribe his scores suffered from inferior librettists who interpreted the writing of an opera as something which should be approached from the standpoint of a symphony.

Meyerbeer's early operas were German and Italian, and in 1826, when he arrived in Paris, which he made his permanent home, he became absorbed in French operas. He is said to have "combined the flowing melody of the Italians, the solid harmony of the Germans and the poignant declamation and varied, piquant rhythm of the French." And yet it is extremely doubtful whether critics would have acclaimed him as the founder of modern French opera were it not for the happy choice of Scribe as a collaborator. Scribe's contributions provided the lines for the singers and permitted Meyerbeer ample scope for the voices, which he maintained should predominate in every opera.

Alvarez as The Prophet

The completion of "The Prophet" in five acts found ready hands awaiting its production in the person of the Paris Grand Opera House, the same organization whose presentation of "The Huguenots" added another jewel to the diadem of the institution. It was duly produced in Paris on April 16, 1849, and its power so engrossed the audience that the plaudits were plainly evident in the adjacent streets. "The Prophet," in the opinion of all, was melodramatic, entrancing and replete with trenchant melodies. For good measure, Meyerbeer added a ballet. Two months later this opera was presented in London, where it duplicated its Paris success, and the next year "The Prophet" was witnessed in New Orleans.

GRAHAM, long ago, deliberately adopted a policy of building its business on a foundation of value-giving.

GRAHAM, at that time, did not dream that its present triumph in value-giving would be so speedily accomplished.

GRAHAM hardly expected, for instance, to offer the public a motor car like the Standard Six Town Sedan at $1235, delivered in Windsor, Ontario.

But GRAHAM has been able, through masterful and exacting control of mass production, to provide this car with such unparalleled features as—115-inch wheelbase—a six-cylinder motor with 207 cubic inches piston displacement—7-bearing crankshaft with 81.4 square inches of main-bearing area—Graham-built bodies with four wide doors and adjustable seats—hydraulic internal expanding four-wheel brakes, extra large 12-inch drums.

GRAHAM, in addition to all these superiorities, is alone in giving the climaxing value of shatter-proof safety plate glass, and its priceless protection to life and limb.

GRAHAM realizes that the true value of this car cannot be conveyed in words. It is so much more vividly evident from behind the wheel—at five, thirty or sixty miles an hour—that Graham invites and urges you to drive it—just for your own satisfaction.

GRAHAM gives the same measure of value in all its models—Standard and Special Sixes, Standard and Special Eights—for they are all products of the same science of building value through mass production. ENGLISH GOLFER GIVES BOBBY JONES GREAT RUN

Sons of Canada Play Good Ball and Down Antlered Crew, 10-1

Canadians Check In With Third Straight Victory in Senior Amateur Baseball—Defeat of Elks Creates Tie for First Berth

HOW THEY STAND

	W.	L.	Pct.
Elks	3	2	.600
Jokers	3	2	.600
Sons of Canada	3	3	.500
Eagles	1	3	.250

Next game, tomorrow, Jokers vs. Eagles.

SONS of Canada ball nine collected ten safeties from the offerings of Jimmy Dangerfield, Elks' moundsman, at the Royal Athletic Park last night, and made every hit good for a run as they checked in with a 10-1 victory in a regular league fixture. It marked the third successive win for the Canadians and the second defeat for the antlered crew. The result tightened up the pennant race and left the Elks and the Jokers deadlocked in first berth, with the Sons of Canada just behind. With less than one-third of the scheduled games played, it looks as if the race for the pennant is going to be a hotly contested affair.

SONS PLAY GOOD BALL

The Sons turned in a good performance behind the effective hurling of Lloyd Cann, their youthful slab artist, who let the Elks down with six scattered bingles. Cann twirled one of his best games of the season and was particularly brilliant in the pinches. In addition to heaving a good game, he connected with one of Dangerfield's offerings in the eighth and clouted the ball to deep right field for a circuit smash. Two men were on base at the time.

The Elks, on the other hand, failed to show the class of which they are capable. Bad boners crept into their play at crucial periods, and while these miscues were not directly responsible for their defeat, they had a lot to do with the score registered against them.

Dangerfield had a bad night. He was nicked for ten safeties, including a circuit smash by Cann, while he issued five free trips. Four of the opposing sluggers swung at his offerings in vain.

CANN GIVEN HAND

Cann was given a great hand by the fans in the sixth when the Elks appeared to be ready for a rally, when, after one run had been checked in and the cushions were loaded, he breezed Dangerfield for the third out and pulled himself out of what might easily have been a bagful of trouble.

In the seventh, the antlered crew started another rally and had three men on with only one down. Tommy Forbes came up and laid one down to Cann, who threw McKenzie out at home and Bacon nipped the ball to the initial cushion to catch Forbes beating it for first. It was a neat double play and one that drew the plaudits of the fans.

There were a number of sparkling plays, particularly in the outer garden, where the boys were kept busy. The Elks clouted a number of Cann's offerings out in the big open spaces but it was just like dropping them down a well. The same must be said for the Elks daisy crushers, who made some spectacular catches.

Jack Bacon, sorrel-topped catcher for the Canadians, had quite an interesting evening. He batted at 1.000, pilfered three sacks to lead the base stealers, laid down his life on one occasion and had eight putouts to his credit.

Big League BASEBALL

By AL DEMAREE
(Former Pitcher New York Giants)

An outfielder should be a good judge of fly balls, and be able to catch them in all positions and on either side of his body. He must be able to catch line drives and high flies that go over his right or left shoulder. Never catch a ball with one hand when you can use both hands. That makes an easy chance difficult. You should practice until you can go back on a ball hit over your head, as easily as you came in on one.

In order to prevent injury to yourself and the other players from collisions resulting from two men attempting to make the same catch, always shout "I have it" as soon as you are positive you can reach the ball. If the other outfielder yells for the ball, before you do, stop immediately and let him make the catch.

Always watch the flag to see which way the wind is blowing. If it is blowing out, you will have to play much deeper than you ordinarily would.

Never make unnecessary throws. If you see you have no chance to throw a runner out at the plate, throw to second base and hold the batter on first base. And when you throw, always throw on a line with one or two bounces.

EXPLANATION FOR SUNDAY'S RIPLEY CARTOON

The Tomb of a Dog—Thebaw, the last King of Burma, was a tryant of extraordinary cruelty. Yet he had a frenetic love for a Scotch terrier, which an itinerant beggar presented to him. He endowed the animal with the rank of a Duke, made it a general and admiral of the royal armed forces, and after its decease gave it a royal funeral, and had a magnificent tomb erected over it. The picture was drawn from an original photo of the "Pagoda of the Dog," which I procured in Rangoon a few years ago.

Curious Name of the London Leathermaker—The London leathermaker of curious nomenclature was called "Damned Barebone" for short, though his given name was the one shown in my drawing. Reference: "Curiosities of Puritan Nomenclature," by Charles W. Bardsley.

HUGE SALMON TAKEN IN ARM

Tyson Dickinson and Miss Mary Laird Land 49½-Pound Fish After Great Struggle

H. DALBY GETS FINE SPECIMEN

The largest salmon taken around the southern part of Vancouver Island for some time was landed Sunday by Tyson "Slim" Dickinson and Miss Mary Laird, both of this city, off McCurdy's Point at the entrance to McKenzie Bay, Brentwood. This monster member of the finny tribe weighed forty-nine and one-half pounds, and took over an hour to land. It towed the rowboat, which Dickinson and Miss Laird were in, around at a terrific speed for several minutes. This fish was on view at Peden Brothers' store yesterday, and attracted a great deal of attention.

Henry Dalby landed another big salmon, which he hooked off Brentwood shore. It weighed thirty-six pounds, and was viewed by many at Fox's store. A large number of other fish were taken in the Arm during the week-end.

BRYNJOLFSON WINS UPLANDS GOLF HONORS

Brilliant Young Exponent Defeats R. L. Challoner in Finals, 4 and 3, to Capture Club Title

C. N. WESTWOOD COPS FIRST FLIGHT

Playing a steady brand of golf during the first eighteen, which gave him a five-hole lead, Harold Brynjolfson, youthful mashie wielder, captured the Uplands Golf Club championship Sunday by defeating R. L. "Bert" Challoner in the thirty-six-hole final, 4 and 3. Although Brynjolfson's victory was expected he was given a stiff battle by his opponent.

Brynjolfson started by winning the first hole, after which he was never headed. At the ninth he was holding a two-hole margin, which he increased during the second nine to become five up.

Challoner fought back gamely during the final round, but he failed to overcome the large lead established earlier in the match. The loser was only one down as the pair trekked to the twenty-eighth tee, but from there on Brynjolfson steadied down and let loose some fine golf to win three holes in succession, the thirtieth, thirty-first and thirty-second holes to end the match.

C. N. Westwood won the first flight honors by defeating J. Savident, 2 and 1, after a keen match. Following the matches, long-driving, approaching and putting competitions were held by the women and men members.

FORMER COAL MINER HAS 15 FOURS, BUT LOSES OUT 3 AND 2

U.S. Open Champion Shoots Four Birdies and Eagle in First Nine in Defeating Sidney Roper—Harrison Johnston and George Voigt Forced to Limit Before Advancing

Cyril Tolley and T. A. Torrance Survive Second Round Matches

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 26.—Opening play of the British amateur golf championship today was featured by weird weather and spectacular golf by Bobby Jones and Sidney Roper, an unknown English youth, who learned his golf between shifts as a coal miner.

Against an avalanche of four birdies and an eagle for the first nine holes, which Jones shot in thirty-three strokes, Roper replied with a string of nine fours, turning only two down, and he clung tenaciously to Bobby the whole way to the sixteenth hole, where he was eliminated three up and two to play.

Roper entered from a municipal course at Nottingham, where he is the Nottinghamshire champion, did not even have a caddy who knew the course, a friend carrying clubs for him, but he had the shots which brought praise from Jones after the match, and hope in the hearts of British golfers as he poured his steady fire of fours against the American star.

Roper, dressed in an old coat and flannel trousers, and wearing a slouch hat and ordinary street shoes with hobnails, never faltered, and if the American had played just a little less sensational golf, he might have been beaten.

TWO AMERICANS HARD PUT

Jones and Roper provided the thrills today, while the other two American Walker Cup players in action, Harrison R. Johnston and George Voigt, did the hard work. Johnston never found the touch of the St. Andrews greens and he had to work hard for the two victories he needed to remain in the competition. The American amateur champion won his morning match from Bernard Darwin, two up and one to play, while in the second round Major V. A. G. Barry, who was the champion twenty-five years ago, took him to the eighteenth green, where "Jimmy" won, one up.

George Voigt, in spite of trouble with his irons throughout his match, disposed of Edward Tipple, brilliant young English players, with a good putt at the nineteenth hole. Dormie at the seventeenth, the New Yorker lost the eighteenth and had to start again. The match was all square after nine holes.

Frankie Stevens, Jr., Hollywood, Cal., won his second match, but a number of other Americans were removed from the competition, including Robert E. Hunter, G. Parker Toms and Harvey Bates Perrin, Los Angeles.

CYRIL TOLLEY ADVANCES

Cyril Tolley, the British amateur champion, and T. A. Torrance, the only British Walker Cup player to win a match in the last two years, survived today, Tolley after a hard match and Torrance under wraps.

George von Elm, George Voigt, Don Moe, Dr. O. F. Willing, Roland MacKenzie and Francis Ouimet will play tomorrow, while Jones and Johnston rest. Jones started his sixth match today in fine warm weather, but ended it in chilling winds. A galloping crowd of 5,000, making a record opening day gallery for St. Andrews, ran wild over the narrow fairways as Jones started his day's play by ramming home a twenty-foot putt for a birdie three at the 365-yard hole.

HOLES SHOT FROM BUNKER

Jones sent his approach almost dead at the 356-yard third hole for another birdie. At the fourth hole his drive of 300 yards rolled into a trap. Standing waist deep in the "cottage" bunker, he swung his mashie and sent ball from loose sand into the cup 120 yards away for an eagle two.

After seven holes had been played, Jones had taken only ten putts, but used six on the next two and ruined what would have been a record for the outward nine. He was out in thirty-three, one more than he needed for his first nine of his record sixty-eight in the first round of the 1927 open championship at St. Andrews.

Jones started home with two birdies in the first three holes, but Roper, never dismayed for an instant, kept plugging with his four at every hole. He never made a long putt and never missed a short one until the thirteenth, where he could have reduced Jones' lead had he made a holeable putt. His card showed fifteen fours and a lone five.

LAWN TENNIS

BY WILLARD CROCKER

IX. THE BACKHAND

The backhand shot is the mirror image of the forehand. Everything should be carried out to conform to laws of the forehand. Reverse proportions are the measure. The grip most easily taken is to place the thumb up the handle of the racket, pointing towards the trademark. This will allow the racket to be swung easily parallel to the ground and also allow the face of the racket to be perpendicular to the ground. The ball is met slightly in front of the body, on the rise. The right foot is forward and the weight starts from the left foot and travels forward onto the right. The body must be facing in a direction parallel to the net and never directly facing the net. This point is the commonest cause of faulty backhand strokes, when the player fails to turn far enough to take his stroke. You must get that right foot in front and face in a direction parallel to the net. The rules of follow through are distinctly those of the forehand. Let your racket continue until the full swing is completed and never let your opponent see the back side of your racket. The two strokes to cultivate on the back hand are the crosscourt and straight down the sideline shots. The first into area No. 3 and the latter in area No. 1 on the opponents' forehand corner. Always swing freely and confidently. Do not let the usual inferiority complex develop concerning your backhand. Concentrate with confidence.

STRIKING FEATURES AT ST. ANDREWS

There were three striking features at the first day's play at St. Andrews which bring out the uncertainties of golf, especially in an eighteen-hole match.

Bobby Jones went out in 33 against an unknown artisan golfer named Roper, and yet was only two up. An unknown youngster by the name of Tipple carried out Voigt to the nineteenth green and Jimmy Johnston, the United States amateur champion, needed an eagle three on the seventeenth green to beat Bernard Darwin, a fifty-four-year-old golf writer.

Here were indications of storms ahead.

Jones opened his St. Andrews campaign with 3-4-3-2-4, a matter of four under even fours for the first five holes and yet had to face a hard fight.

THE NERVE-SAVING ATTITUDE

It has been said that the strain of an eighteen-hole golf match is as hard on one player as it is on another. It all depends on the type of player.

John Ball was a great golfer, but one of the main reasons why he won the British amateur championship eight times was that he never got keyed up. On one or two occasions they had to hurry him out of his garden at Hoylake to start in time where the first tee was only 200 yards away.

In this connection Jess Sweetser, who won the British title in 1926, tells an interesting story about Brownlow, the golfer who took him twenty-one holes in the semi-final round and who last week lost to Bobby Jones by a stroke in the Gold Vase competition.

"I never played in a match I enjoyed more," said Jess. "Brownlow sauntered up to the first tee in his street clothes, street shoes, everyday hat and he was wearing gloves. This semi-final round to him was apparently nothing but another golf match. At the first good shot I hit he was liberal and enthusiastic in his comment. And I could see that he meant it. I was soon cheering him with the same feeling. Everything was casual. There was no tension, strain or even keenness at any point.

"Naturally I wanted to win, and so did he, but we were not keyed up about it. No one could be in the face of his friendly, easy-going, just-out-for-a-golf-game attitude. Brownlow was out to enjoy himself, play as well as he could and not bother about the result.

"When I was two up and two to play he stepped up without a quiver and holed two long putts in a row without wasting any time. There wasn't the slightest trace of disappointment in his voice as he offered his congratulations at the twenty-first green and said how much he had enjoyed the match.

"I know I had more fun in that round than I ever had in a championship match and I can honestly say I felt no great strain as we went to the extra holes. He was such a nice fellow that winning or losing seemed unimportant details."

WHERE IT IS DIFFERENT

But no round of golf in a British championship can be a casual affair to Bobby Jones. He must know he is rated high enough to win and in a way the world of golf is expecting him to win. Having won every other important title he is bound to feel the heavy pressure of each match he plays this week and it is this accumulated pressure which may lead to a costly lapse.

He will have nothing but fine golfers to meet after today's schedule, golfers capable of shooting a 71 or a 72 in eighteen-hole dashes. Others will feel a heavy strain, but not quite as heavy since not quite so much is expected from them.

And there is no one in the field who can carry the mental attitude of old John Ball, who frequently had no idea how the match stood as he hit his shots and strolled along. There were occasions when he would have to ask whether he was up or down coming into the stretch.

TILDEN'S OUTLOOK

Another great American competitor faces a hard test this week as Bill Tilden battles on his way for a chance to meet Henri Cochet in the final match for the French tennis championship.

Tilden, having won fourteen tournaments out of fifteen starts, has invaded the domain of the French champion, who is now also the world's champion. And where Cochet was conceded a sure victory some weeks ago, Tilden's brilliant play has turned the outcome into a guess. It will be largely a question as to whether the veteran can hold his pace through another hard week and come to the final match in shape to do his stuff.

Probably no one nation ever had three such stars as Bobby Jones, Bill Tilden and Helen Wills leading invasions in the same week where each is, or has been, the greatest in his or her game.

All of which combines to make this one of the most memorable weeks of sport. Whatever may happen to Bobby Jones along the route it is a fairly sure thing that one American golfer may work his way to the final round and there is a strong chance that a third name will be added to the Travis-Sweetser combination who gained the heights twenty-two years apart.

THE LOUDEST CHEERING

Some time back, after the Sharkey-Scott affair, it looked as if Max Schmeling, the German challenger, would get most of the crowd's applause when the two stepped into the ring on June 12. But no one can guess where the crowd's applause will flow. Sharkey got the most friendly reception he had ever faced in New York last Friday night and this indicates that he will have his full share of popular support when he leaves his corner to swing at the strong young German, who now may be on the less popular side.

It will be interesting to see just where the crowd's approval and disapproval will fall. There may be little difference in the hip-hip underneath the stars and this seems to be the best guess at the moment. If there are any odds they will be in Sharkey's favor as he has come this far along with a better looking chance to win. Which doesn't mean a lot if one checks back upon other training camps from other years.

NORM WALLACE RETAINS CLUB CHAMPIONSHIP

Seventeen-Year-Old Youth Stages Great Comeback to Defeat G. Terry in Colwood Final

WINNER WAS FOUR DOWN AT THE 18TH

Staging a remarkable comeback, Norman Wallace, seventeen-year-old school lad, retained the championship of the Colwood Golf and Country Club Sunday by defeating Goldwyn Terry over the thirty-six-hole journey, one up. Wallace was four down at the halfway mark, but jumped at every opportunity on the final jaunt to win out after a strenuous battle.

The champion won the first hole, but his opponent squared the match by winning the second. The third and fourth were halved, and Terry went one up at the fifth. From this hole to the thirty-sixth Terry was never down, and it was a tough match to lose after setting the pace for practically the entire route.

TERRY FOUR UP

The pair started the final eighteen with Terry holding a four-hole lead. Immediately Wallace started to slice his opponent's lead and kept on erasing the odd hole until he squared the match at the thirty-third. The following two holes were halved, but Wallace bagged his usual par on the thirty-sixth to retain his championship.

George Wilkinson won the championship of the first flight, defeating A. D. Straith in the final, two up. In the finals of the second flight, J. H. Lee beat H. E. Brown, two up. B. R. HERMAN HOLDS BIG SIX LEAD

Connects for Only One Hit, but Remains on Top—Rice Gets Two and Holds Mark

Only four of the Big Six got into action yesterday, but the best the quartette could do was four hits in sixteen times at bat. Sam Rice, American League leader, cracked out two of the hits while Babe Herman, cf the Robins, and Al. Simmons of the Athletics, got one each.

Babe Ruth went hitless and Paul Waner and Frank O'Doul were idle. Rice's two safeties kept his .414 in tact, while Herman dropped to .419, but maintained his leadership of the Big Six.

GOLF AS CHAMPIONS PLAY IT

What are some tips on playing dog-leg holes?

Answered by LEO DIEGEL

Dog-leg holes are necessarily two-shotters, unless they are of the variety that a long hitter can reach from the tee by cutting the angle. For the majority of players, the thought should be to place the tee shot so that the hole is thoroughly opened up for the second shot.

If the dog-leg turns to the right, the tee shot should generally be played to the left side of the fairway, with the reverse holding true for a dog-leg to the left. The pin is usually placed so as to open up the hole to a wide tee shot, and to make a more difficult second shot for the man who hugs the boundary. Position from the tee is everything in playing dog-leg holes. If the hole is a three-shotter, the first two long shots should be played to make the third shot easy.

SUNDAY SCHOOL HONORS WORKER

Mr. A. R. Merrix, Superintendent of Christ Church School, Receives Address and Purse

In appreciation of his long and devoted services to the institution, teachers and pupils of Christ Church Cathedral Sunday School, on Sunday morning last, presented Mr. A. R. Merrix, superintendent, who is temporarily severing his connection with the school in August next, with an illuminated address and a purse of gold.

The address was executed by Mr. R. Dove, assistant to Mr. J. C. M. Keith, cathedral architect, and read as follows:

"To Albert Ronald Merrix: The officers, teachers and pupils of Christ Church Cathedral Parish Sunday School, of Victoria, B.C., desire to express their great appreciation of the exceptional services rendered as superintendent of the school during a period of twelve years, 1918-1930. They hope and pray that God's richest blessings may rest upon your work in the future."

The address was presented by Flora White and Betty Anderson, pupils of the Sunday School, while the purse was presented by Richard Angus and Eric Noon, also pupils. Mr. Merrix suitably acknowledged the receipt of the gifts.

SCONE ELATED OVER GIFT

News that Robert Douglas, who died at Rochester, N.Y., May 28, 1929, had left a substantial portion of his estate of $5,000,000 to his native village of Scone, Scotland, has been received with elation by the villagers. Douglas stipulated that a trust fund, to be known as the Douglas Foundation, for the promotion of the welfare, happiness and health of the inhabitants of Scone, be established. The millionaire's two brothers will outline the plans with representatives of the village. Douglas was born seventy-one years ago in the village made famous by the stone on which Scottish kings sat at coronation. His father founded a preserve factory, and when Douglas came to America at thirty years of age he started his fortune by perfecting a fruit preservative.

FIRE HAZARD SITUATION HAS IMPROVED

The reports compiled by the forest branch with respect to the fire hazards in the various parts of the province over the past week show that the situation had improved from those which prevailed during the week preceding.

"Conditions are now favorable over the whole province," is the commentary of the chief forester, Mr. P. Z. Caverhill, with respect to the whole situation.

The weather conditions covering last week were, throughout the province, cool and showery, with some localities like Prince George with heavy showers, and Cariboo with good rains. The number of fires to date at the end of the week was 250, compared with 275 for the corresponding period the year before, and 146 for the same period in 1928.

SIR JOHN FAGGE SEEKING "A JOB"

DOVER, Eng., May 26.—Sir John Fagge, former handyman of Peperell, Mass., at present Baronet of Dover, wants a job.

Sir John arrived in England ten weeks ago, when he came to assume the title he inherited from his elder brother, John Charles, who died in January. Sir John's life has not been too exciting during those ten weeks. He got no money with the title, and he is getting a little bored with his role of leisured country gentleman, who has to live in a boarding house.

In fact, he would like a job in London or any city in the United States except Peperell. Sir John doesn't know yet whether he is going back to the United States soon, although he is sure he will return eventually.

"But not to Peperell," he says, "for it's very different now you know. I used to work there. Now it would be different, because my position has changed. In other words, I won't work in Peperell."

"Bobby, I hope you didn't tell your daddie that you saw me kissing your sister Ethel last night?"

"I didn't have to. Ethel woke us all up after you'd gone, and told us herself."

If Your Face Is "Square"

Psychologists call the square-faced man the "doer." Not only is his face square, but the whole man is square built. He loves activity and things that move. He is the transportation man par excellence—the sailor, the soldier, the explorer. He excels in games. He wears glasses for their use and comfort, preferring spectacles. He likes "heavy" frames and they suit him splendidly. He expects good service and can appreciate it. His type finds individual service here.

LOCAL TRIBUTES TO ARCHBISHOP

WORTH OF LORD DAVIDSON ACKNOWLEDGED BY LOCAL ANGLICANS

Canon Hitchcox Speaks of Life Work of Former Primate at Cathedral

"A simpler, kinder soul never lived," was one of the many encomiums given in the Anglican pulpits of the city Sunday in memory of the late Archbishop Lord Davidson, whose death in the early hours of the morning was announced in The Colonist. Canon Hitchcox, of Nanaimo, who was substituting for Dean Quainton at Christ Church Cathedral, made this reference to the Archbishop's attractive personality in a brief address before the sermon, after which the congregation stood while the organist played Sir Hubert Parry's "Elegie." He dwelt on his ecclesiastical statesmanship in keeping the various sections of the church together, and of his hopes for the ultimate union of Christendom. All parties sympathized, said the speaker, with him in his unfulfilled hopes regarding the revised prayer book.

At St. John's Church, Canon Chadwick, in connection with the prayers for Lambeth Conference, said that one could not think of this mementous gathering without the personality who had presided over it at the last two occasions with such outstanding fairness and ability. The St. John's rector referred to the former primate's personal charm, spiritual power, scholarship and his consumate ability in guiding the destines of the Anglican Church through a difficult period. After the benediction the congregation stood during the playing of the Dead March in "Saul."

At St. Barnabas' Church the Prayer for the Departed, and the hymn, "For All the Saints," were included in the morning service by the vicar, Rev. N. E. Smith.

The late Archbishop's interest in the building of the new cathedral was mentioned by Dean Quainton in an interview with The Colonist. During the Dean's visit to England in 1927 he had been privileged in seeing the Archbishop on a number of occasions, who had given his approval to the local project in a letter which was also signed by the Earl of Clarendon and the Bishop of London. It was an evidence of deep interest the primate took in the world-wide work of the Anglican communion.

DEMOCRACY OF BRITISH TRUEST

New York Editorial Points Out Its Superiority Over that of United States

(Canadian Press)

NEW YORK, May 26.—The New York World recently published the following editorial under the heading: "Democracy: Here and in Canada."

"While we Americans like to feel that our governmental system is a democracy more amenable to the public will than that of any other nation, we flatter ourselves. The British democracy is far more susceptible to public opinion. In England, or in the English Dominions, no Government would attempt to carry on under conditions of protest which make no difference here.

"Thus we have an illustration in the announcement of Mackenzie King, the Canadian Prime Minister, that his Government will go to the people in an election at the earliest possible moment. The Opposition insists that the country has lost confidence, and the Premier agrees that there is enough to raise the question of confidence. And so the two parties will appeal to the people, and if the people have lost confidence the Liberal Government will pass from power.

"Under our system the people have been known to lose confidence in an administration in the first months of power, and yet that administration has continued in authority, despite the loss of confidence, for four years more.

"Should the elections this Fall result in the election of a Democratic House, as now seems probable, the administration will be repudiated. But the administration will hold on, with power to thwart such legislation as the new Congress, fresh from the people, may undertake. Such a thing would be impossible in England or in Canada.

"A century and a third ago we were the greatest democracy in the world, but the British have moved ahead and taken our place."

OLD CLUB TO ADMIT WOMEN

After thirty-eight years of the "men only" policy the National Sporting Club of London will admit women to the clubhouse. The policy of confining its activities solely to the promotion of professional boxing is to be abandoned, and facilities for fencing, swimming, squash tennis, billiards, shooting and other recreations will be provided. A membership of 6,000 is the new goal. The club will shortly erect a clubhouse on a site of 26,350 square feet at Mayfair, to cost $2,250,000. It will have a public restaurant and 250 bedroom suites.

Mr. Cecil Hunt has collected another entertaining book full of "Fresh Howlers." It is a mine of laughs in a line or two, taken from the seriously intended answers of school children. Here are just a few of them:

People go about Venice in Gorgonzalas.

A polygon is a man who has many wives.

A brunette is a young bear.

Ambiguity means having two wives living at the same time.

All brutes are imperfect animals; man alone is a perfect brute.

Matrimony is a place where souls suffer for a long time on account of their sins.

The Pope issued a Bull decomposing Elizabeth.

The Normans introduced a Frugal System.

A figure of speech is a way of talking or writing by which you say what you don't mean and yet mean what you say.

CHAPTER XXVII

When "Crooked Bill" boarded the train for El Paso, he sent the following telegram to Glenn Hackett:

"The ship is sunk without a trace so brace yourself for bad news. This Higgins boy gave me cards and spades, four aces, big and little casino, and beat me to death on the sweeps. I am mighty sorry you have lost, but far from depressed that he appears to be going to win. However, we will keep on trying, although I have no hope. I belong in a home for the feeble-minded."

At almost the same time Don Jaime joined Ken Hobart in front of the Mansion House.

"Any luck?" Hobart queried anxiously.

"I'm in the sheep business, Ken. Tomorrow morning we'll pay off that gang of murderers Dingle has herding those sheep and put our own men on the job. Dingle bets the raus, too."

"Well, you'll clear a profit, won't you, chief?"

"What," replied Don Jaime, mournfully, doth it profit a man if he gaineth the whole world and suffereth the loss of the lode star of his existence?"

"None whatever," Ken admitted, without knowing in the least what he was talking about.

Five miles outside Los Algodones his sharp eyes observed something far ahead and off the side of the road. He called Don Jaime's attention to it. In the starlight a tiny red dot gleamed.

"Cigarette — Mexican — careless," Don Jaime murmured. "Ah, he's doused it. Getting ready for business." He reached down into the tonneau and brought up a carbine; simultaneously Ken Hobart swung the car off the road and went through the low sage in a wide arc. "There may be holes and dry watercourses on this road," he announced, "but we'll have to take a chance."

He switched off the lights just as a volley of rifle fire broke the stillness of the night. The car was hit twice, but most of the bullets droned overhead. Don Jaime pumped his carbine, firing at the flashes, and the car crashed on; when the magazine was empty he set the rifle back in the tonneau.

They reached the hacienda without further incident. Don Jamie alighted and entered the patio. Roberta ran swiftly to meet him.

"You're safe, Jimmy?" she cried.

"Reasonably so, Bobby," he replied. "My information was correct. Dingle's crowd of imported killers laid for us." He held his hat toward her and ran his fingers through two holes in the crown. "And that bonnet cost me forty dollars," he grieved.

"Oh, Jimmy! What if he'd aimed lower!"

"Have you been worried, Bobby?" he asked gently.

She nodded.

"It's been a long time since anybody worried over me, Bobby. What will I do when you're gone?"

"What did you do before I came, Jimmy? And I—I think—Jimmy, I'd better go soon. There's really nothing more of a business nature for me to attend to. There never was, in fact—just a few papers to sign, some sheep to look at—and they're really your worry, not mine."

He shrugged. "Well, suit yourself. But we'll tie a can to Dingle and his men before you go." He stifled a little yawn. "I'm tired, Bobby. Breakfast at six tomorrow morning. Will you join me? Then we can get an early start for the old Antrim ranch and jolt Mr. Dingle out of his complacency."

She nodded and turned away to hide the tears of mortification that were welling to her eyes. Why couldn't he see that she did not want to leave Valle Verde at all? Why had he not urged her to stay? Of course, he had urged her, but then he had not been persistent in it. If he had persisted she would have reconsidered. No, he did not love her. Absolutely not! Outwardly he was fiery; inwardly he was cold. She felt very miserable as she bade him good-night with a little catch in her throat.

At breakfast he noted the circles under her eyes and rejoiced exceedingly thereat. "When they worry so about a fellow that they can't sleep, a deaf man may not infrequently catch the faint sound of wedding bells," he reflected.

They chatted in desultory fashion during the meal; then Roberta went to fetch her coat and hat. She was waiting for him at the patio gate when he emerged from the ranch office, a carbine in his hand, a belt of ammunition around his waist, and the two pistols tied to his legs. Julio brought the enclosed car up, and when they climbed in Roberta noticed that beside Julio sat Ken Hobart. He was armed similarly to his chief and carried a spare carbine.

An hour later they pulled up at the Antrim ranchhouse. It was a tumbledown affair, set in the middle of a desolate field. Not much of a heritage, Roberta thought, as she gazed on the lonely and unpleasant scene. Ken Hobart got out, walked to the front door and banged on it loudly. A Chinaman, in a greasy apron, opened it.

"Where's Dingle?" the foreman demanded.

"He go ketchum sheep."

Hobart walked round the house and inspected the interior of an equally dilapidated barn.

"I imagine the Chinaman's telling the truth. Dingle's car is not in the barn," he reported.

"We've had our drive for nothing, Ken. Well, we'll go back to Valle Verde, put a couple of saddle horses in a truck and run down to the range where the sheep are. We'll go as far as we can with the truck and this car, and then unload and ride up into the hills. Game for the journey, Bobby?"

She nodded and they whirled across the dusty plain to Valle Verde. Here four horses were saddled and led up a ramp into a large motor truck, and, preceded by the motor car, they headed down the road toward Los Algodones.

From time to time Don Jaime's riders had reported on the approximate location of the main body of sheep still on the open range and the direction in which they were moving; consequently he was enabled to make a good guess as to where he would find them today. They left the road presently and broke trail across the sage to the foothills.

"Ken, you and Julio ride in a Northeasterly direction," Don Jaime ordered. "Miss Antrim and I will ride in the general direction of that butte yonder to the Southeast—the one with the old landslide scarring its Western front. Aurelio, you will remain here with the truck and the car. We will meet here not later than 4 o'clock this afternoon, Ken."

Roberta mounted the hunter Don Jaime had given her. To her surprise she found a light carbine protruding from a holster swung under the sweat leather on her stock saddle, and a belt of cartridges hung over the pommel.

They rode steadily into the Southeast, gradually climbing the butte; when they reached its crest, Jaime reined in his horse. With his binoculars he swept the country for miles in every direction.

"Do you see a slight film of white dust in the sky—rising beyond those low slate-colored hills yonder?" He pointed. Roberta adjusted the glasses and looked. The cloud in question was very faint, but—it was a cloud.

"Sheep moving—south," Don Jaime informed her laconically. "I have a hunch Mr. Dingle is headed for Mexico with the said sheep."

"You mean—he's stealing them?"

"I do. There's fair range below the Rio Grande—for sheep—and it isn't at all a difficult job for the Dingles of this world to get across the line without being detected. Money sometimes does it, more frequently guile."

They rode on, keeping to the backbone of the western fringe of foothills. An hour of hard riding brought them to the crest of the slate-colored hills. Below them a plain sloped gently into the bluish haze; faintly to them came the continuous bleating of sheep; a dirty grey blur indicated the flock—and it was moving southward, slowly, tortuously, as a worm moves. At its rear and on the flanks, little black dots, that were herders and sheep dogs, urged the weary animals along. Don Jaime counted the largest dots.

"Twenty herders," Roberta heard him remark. "Hum-m-m! It doesn't look as if it would be quite safe to give Bill Dingle his walking papers today. He is not in a mood to accept them." He cased his binoculars, whirled his horse and, without even a look at the girl beside him, started back the way they had come.

"What are you going to do, Jimmy?" she asked anxiously, spurring up alongside of him.

"We're going back to the car, Bobby. I'm going to send Aurelio back to Valle Verde for reinforcements."

"Will there be a fight?"

"I think so, Bobby. Dingle has twenty herders. Six, with the dogs, should be ample to manoeuvre those sheep. So it looks as if he had prepared for trouble, and when men prepare for trouble, it's a pretty good sign they will not avoid it."

"I don't want a fight," the girl cried passionately. "You and some of your men may get hurt—killed."

"Quite likely. I have no intention of making this anything but a slaughter."

Roberta commenced to sob. "Oh, Jimmy, I'm afraid—terribly afraid! I have a presentiment you'll be killed."

"Would that matter so very much to you?" His hand closed over her arm. "Look at me, Roberta. Would it matter so very much?"

She nodded an affirmative, unable to trust herself to speak.

He said something in Spanish. Roberta suspected it was an oath!

"Oh, Jimmy! Please—please, for my sake."

He pulled up his horse and glowered at her. "My dear girl," he cried sharply, "you're trying to make a quitter out of me. When a man permits a woman to rob him of his strength he might as well get killed and have his shame over with. Is that understood?"

Roberta nodded miserably. What argument of hers could prevail above his logic? And yet, beneath her cold fear there burned a wild pride that he had made his decision so, and deep down in her rebellious, belligerent heart she knew that, come what might, she would not have it otherwise now.

Production Is Curtailed by Lumber Mills

PORTLAND, Ore., May 26.—Colonel W. B. Greeley, secretary and manager of the West Coast Lumbermen's Association, has announced that many lumber mills in the Douglas fir region of the Pacific Northwest have curtailed production for an extended period.

Several mills that normally operate two shifts, the statement said, are planning to operate on a one-shift basis. Others, he said, will reduce cutting schedules to four and five days a week, while many single shift mills are operating on a five-day week basis.

Decreased demand for nearly all important markets, he said, plus operating losses under the present conditions are the causes.

DARCUS WINS ISLAND GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

Defeats Jack Matson in Finals at Qualicum Beach Golf Club, 2 and 1—Winner Putts Well

MRS. TWEDDLE IS WOMEN'S CHAMPION

Waving a putter that behaved like a magic wand, R. J. Darcus, of this city, breezed through to the Vancouver Island golf championship Sunday at the Qualicum Beach Golf Club, by defeating Jack Matson, also of Victoria, 2 and 1, over the eighteen-hole finals.

Both played beautiful golf, but Darcus's victory was due mostly to his great work on the carpets. Time and again Matson dropped his approaches dead to the flag, but Darcus would step up to his ball from almost any distance and either sink a nice putt for a half or win. On the fourteenth hole the champion caged a thirty-five-footer for a beautiful four to win the hole.

Matson started off by taking the first hole with a nice three. The next five holes were halved, and the loser went two up by winning the seventh with a three. The eighth was halved, and the pair rounded the turn with Matson holding a three-up margin as he captured the ninth with another three.

DARCUS RALLIES

From the tenth until the match ended on the seventeenth green, Darcus exploded some steady golf, while his opponent was erratic at times. Darcus squared the match on the fourteenth and then won the next two holes to win the laurels.

The card follows:

Darcus—
Out ---------- 444 544 454— 38
In ---------- 335 444 36— 32
Matson—
Out ---------- 344 544 353— 35
In ---------- 345 655 46— 38

Mrs. Tweedle, of Vancouver, defeated Mrs. R. P. Baker, Jericho Golf Club, Vancouver, to win the women's championship, 3 and 2. Both players showed some fine golf, and after a nip and tuck affair, Mrs. Tweedle managed to put an end to the whereabouts of the title by ending the match on the sixteenth green. Miss Carey, of Victoria, won the first flight.

The results follow:

MEN'S CHAMPIONSHIP

R. J. Darcus defeated Jack Matson, 2 and 1.

First Flight

Dr. D. Hertel won from Dr. Brydone-Jack by default.

Second Flight

Dr. Davidson defeated Dr. Jeffries, 3 and 2.

WOMEN'S CHAMPIONSHIP

Mrs. Tweedle defeated Mrs. R. P. Baker, 3 and 2.

Mixed Foursomes

General Money and Miss Carey.

For there is something about WAKEFIELD that makes it different from other tobaccos, something that we believe will meet with your whole-hearted approval. WAKEFIELD was not intended to suit all smokers, but on the other hand it may suit you perfectly. At any rate your pipe can tell you much better than we can, so try a pipeful tonight.

OLYMPIC PAYMENT PLAN IS RULED OUT

Proposal to Allow Athletes to Receive Allowance During Sports Voted Down

BERLIN, May 26.—Admission of women competitors to athletic events, as well as fencing, gymnastics, tennis, swimming and skating contests, was recommended by the Olympic programme committee at the meeting of the Olympic Congress here today.

Delegates to the Olympic Congress rounded out a busy day as guests of President von Hindenburg at a party in the palace. By an amendment proposed by the English delegate, the amateurism committee practically killed proposals looking to the payment to athletes of "broken time" for work lost while competing in the Olympics.

Motions by the British Olympic committee and International Amateur Swimming Federation declared that acceptance of compensation for lost wages was contrary to the spirit of amateurism, while a motion by the Belgian Olympic committee and the International Cyclists' Union considered as amateurs "all who are qualified by the regulations and rules of their international federation."

AUSSIES REACH TENNIS FINAL

Hopman and Willard Will Meet Cochet and Brugnon for French Title—Tilden Advances

AUTEUIL, May. 26. — In the French hard court tennis championships today Helen Wills Moody, Bill Tilden and Elizabeth Ryan had to work for their victories, while Wilbur Coen benefited by a default.

Mrs. Moody defeated Adeline Neufeld, French player, 6-0, 6-0. Tilden took the youthful German, Edmund Nourney, into camp, 6-0, 6-1, 6-2. Miss Ryan defeated the former French champion, Suzanne Dove, playing as Madame Desloges, 6-2, 10-8.

Tilden and Frauleln Coillie Aussem, German lady, were the first pair to reach the semi-finals in the mixed doubles. They were hard pressed to win the second set from Takeichi Harada and Madame Mathieu, 9-7, after winning the first, 6-3.

France's old doubles standbys, Henri Cochet and Jacques Brugnon, saved their men's doubles championship final from becoming an all-Australian affair, but were forced into five bitterly disputed sets to achieve this.

Cochet and Brugnon beat E. F. Moon and J. Crawford, 6-4, 6-4, 5-7, 5-7, 6-3. The other Australians, Hopman and Willard, have shown the best brand of doubles play seen in France in years.

Finishing in semi-darkness, Miss Ryan and Jean Borotra defeated Mlle. Jeanne Sigart, of Belgium, and Jack Crawford, Australia, 10-8, 8-6, to reach the semi-finals of the mixed doubles, where they meet the Tilden-Aussem combination.

RAIN INTERFERES WITH O.C. CRICKET

Play Completely Halted in Several Matches—Warwick Piles Up Big Score Against Essex

LONDON, May 26.—Rain today interfered seriously with scheduled English cricket matches. In three of the matches, the Australians vs. Surrey, at the Kennington Oval; Glamorganshire vs. Hampshire, at Pontypridd, and Middlesex vs. Lancashire, at Lord's, no play was possible, while in two other games, play was cut short by showers. These were: Gloucestershire vs. Worcestershire, at Bristol, and Derbyshire vs. Northamptonshire, at Derby. Scores in the game at Bristol, when play stopped for the day, were: Worcester, 156 and 50 for two wickets; Gloucester, 280.

Scores when stumps were drawn in other games, follow:

Notts, 153 and 216; Leicester, 86.

Kent, 205 and 289 (Woolley 119); Yorkshire, 198.

Somerset, 105 and 119 for 7 wickets; Sussex, 223.

Warwick, 501 for six wickets, declared (Bates 110); Essex, 113 for four wickets.

HORSE BROUGHT UP ON PORT WINE AND EGGS DERBY ENTRY

LONDON, May 26.—A "dark horse" entered to run in this year's Derby, now ten days off, is a family pet named "Noble Star," who has been brought up from a weakly foal on port wine and eggs. The horse is owned by Hugh P. Nickalls, brother of Captain Guy Nickalls, the famous oarsman.

Despite the fact that millionaires spent hundreds of thousands in vain efforts to capture this greatest event in English racing, Mr. Nickalls bought Noble Star for 280 guineas (about $1,365). The horse, its owner claims, is an unusually good stayer.

Noble Star and his master and mistress, Mrs. Nickalls, have a lively mutual regard. Like most of his kind, sugar is the horse's weakness, and, like many of his kind, he is always kept will supplied.

AUSTIN TO STAY ON SIDELINES

British Tennis Ace Asks to Be Left Off England's Davis Cup Team Again

LONDON, May 26.—H. W. Austin, one of Great Britain's finest tennis players, will again be on the sidelines when Great Britain meets Australia in their third round Davis Cup tie, starting at Eastbourne June 6.

The British team will consist of J. C. Gregory, who shares top ranking position with Austin; I. G. Collins, H. G. N. Lee and O. P. Hughes.

Austin at his request was omitted from the team that conquered Poland in the second round. He had been playing erratically and felt he was over-tennised.

BILLY McVEIGH WINS AT TORONTO

TORONTO, May 26. — Jackie Johnston, Toronto featherweight, who suffered a one-round knockout at the hands of Kid Chocolate a year ago, seemed headed for the same fate from the fists of Jack Willis, Philadelphia negro, here tonight. But this time Jackie arose from a five-count in the opening round to fight his way to a six-round decision.

The bout, featuring a card at the Arena Gardens, found Johnston sprawled flat, with the round half gone, from a stinging right hook to the jaw. Willis, however, failed to follow up his advantage, and Johnston cleverly protected his weak spot and waded in to open up a widening point game.

Billy McVeigh, Vancouver bantam, fought his way to a close decision over Malcolm Mathieson, Toronto, over the six-round route. McVeigh scored to advantage in the latter rounds, although he showed more signs of wear and tear than the Toronto youngster. McVeigh weighed 116 and Mathieson 116 3-4.

CUMBERLAND WINS SOCCER

CUMBERLAND, May 26.—Cumberland's Empire Day festivities ended Sunday with a soccer game between the Cumberland Eagles and the Powell River All-Stars. The home team won by a score of three goals to one, but the score did not indicate the play, the visitors playing superior combination all the way through. The home team relied on the same style of play that has carried it to victory every time this season, the kick and rush style. Cumberland obtained two goals in the first few minutes, this being the score at half-time.

John Christian Wins Checker Tournament

John Christian won the final of the open air tournament played at Beacon Hill Saturday, when he defeated R. Douglas after a great struggle. Christian had previously defeated G. Wetherall in the semi-final, while Douglas had accounted for D. R. Bremner. Sixteen players took part in the meet. D. R. Bremner refereed the final match. The prize for the event was presented by Alderman Worthington.

Mild Revival of Bullish Enthusiasm Receives Dash Of Cold Water Yesterday

NEW YORK, May 26.—The mild revival of bullish enthusiasm which appeared late last week received a dash of cold water late in today's stock market.

Speculation for the rise was pressed forward with some vigor but the market turned extremely dull after mid-day and short selling in the last hour wiped out most of the morning rise.

Closing prices were irregularly higher, but gains were largely narrow. Total sales were only 2,246,580 shares.

American Can, Columbian Carbon, Eastman Kodak, Johns Manville, Loews and Westinghouse closed up 2 to 3 points. U.S. Steel rose about 2 points but retained only a fraction of its gain. Allied Chemical sold up 10 points but the gain was cut to 3 1-2 points. People's Gas sold up more than 11 points.

J. I. Case sold up about 8 points, then slipped off 14 from the top. American Car & Foundry sagged 6 points to 52, the year's low, and American Locomotive declined 5 to the lowest price in years. The American Tobacco issues, Coca Cola, Dupont and International Harvester lost 2 to 4 points.

Sterling cables held at $4.85 15-16. The Japanese yen was firm.

A decline in time money rates to low levels for the year failed to stir up much enthusiasm for bonds today. Although the undertone was distinctly firm, prices had a tendency to seek lower ground and the day's trading was only nominal.

Tape Topics

With leadership established in General Motors, U.S. Steel following fitfully, the market at New York yesterday rose slightly until before selling off a little at the close, with practically no change, the end coming with irregular and uncertain tone. Total shares changing hands were 2,243,000. All the averages were up, industrials being .81, rails .20, and utilities .21. American Loco made a new low at 55 3-8, after opening at 60 1-8, and closed at the low price.

One of the matters which might be advantageously noted is that of the large number of stock exchange symbols which have been altred. The following stocks come into the change: American Tel. & Tel., which was "A.T.T.," is now "T."; International Tel. & Tel. is now "It.T."; Standard Brands, which was "S.B. X," is now "S.B."; Union Carbide, which was "U.N.C.," is now "U.N."; Famous Players of America, which is now Paramount Publix, has "P. X.G." for the new symbol. Fox Films is changed from "F.O.X." to "F," and Warner Bros. from "W.B.P." to "W.B."

The continued rise of Ajax and Nordon was the feature of the Toronto market, where the large majority of the business was done in these oil stocks. Ajax went up from $2.55 to $2.83, then back to $2.50 and Nordon rose from $1.97 to $2.20 before a last sale at $2.08. The cause of the continued rise in the price of Ajax has not been explained.

Strength and increased prices was also shown in the leaders in the mines. Vipond traveled from $1.17 to $1.22, Newbec from 18c to 21c and then back to 18c. Sudbury Basin appreciated 30c from its opening price of $2.65, with a last sale at $2.90. Sheritt Gordon rose from $1.90 to $1.99, and International Nickel from $33 to $33.75. Noranda went up from $28.50 to a last sale at $29.35, and Arno, of which a large number of shares changed hands, from 7 1-2c to 15c, the closing sale being at 11 1-4c. Mining Corp. traveled from $1.55 to $1.63.

The market in the local oils was a very limited one. Merland had most of the transactions, the first sale being at 20 1-2c and the last at 20 1-4. Other stocks which sold a few shares were Calmont, which changed hands from $1.66 to $1.70, Amalgamated from 24c to 26c, Hargal from 49c to 45c, Home at $7, Fabyan at 7c and 7 3-4c, Mercury at 34c and Mill City at 44c.

There were very few transactions in the local mines. Premier sold at 97c, with the closing prices 96c to $1. Reeves McDonald changed hands at 55c and 51c, Oregon Copper at 10c, Golconda at 85c and 86c, Snowflake at 10c and Woodbine sold 22,000 shares at 4 1-2c and 3c.

PRICES RISE TO NEW HIGH

Oversold Condition Disclosed in Chicago Wheat Market — Strong Undertone Shown

EXPORT DEMAND FAIRLY ACTIVE

(B.C. Bond Corporation, Ltd.)

CHICAGO, May 26.—The wheat market showed a strong undertone, with houses with eastern connections aggressive buyers early, and disclosed an oversold condition; prices advancing around 2½c from Saturday's finish to a new high since April 19. Shorts covered freely.

Reports of Hessian fly in parts of Nebraska and somewhat less favorable comment from Kansas had considerable influence on market. Foreign crop news was also a factor. Private cables told of prospects of 40,000,000 to 60,000,000 bushels less wheat than last year in July.

Export demand was fairly active, with sales estimated at around 1,000,000 bushels, mainly Manitobas to the United Kingdom and Italy. Liverpool was strong and closed 1⅝ to 1¾ pence higher, with less pressure on the market, due to a sharp reduction in stocks there.

World's shipments were larger than expected, but supplies on ocean passage showed only a moderate increase.

The domestic visible supply decreased 3,811,000 bushels for the week—118,435,000 bushels against 98,393,000 bushels last year. Harvest was reported as started in Central Texas.

Strength in wheat was largely responsible for a short covering movement in corn, which lifted values sharply. There was also buying on relatively cool weather over parts of the belt. Visible supply decreased 2,200,000 bushels for the week and is 11,762,000 bushels against 16,596,000 bushels.

Oats were unsettled, with market running into selling orders on advances. Visible supply decreased 793,000 bushels for week and aggregated 12,219,000 bushels against 9,427,000 last year. Rye was firmer in sympathy with wheat. No export business in evidence.

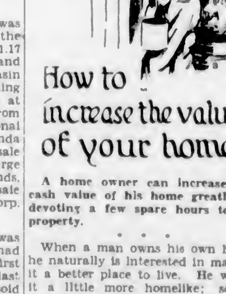
Money at Work

Earning—Saving—Investing



A home owner can increase the cash value of his home greatly by devoting a few spare hours to his property.

When a man owns his own home he naturally is interested in making it a better place to live. He wants it a little more homelike; so he spends part of his vacation and many odd moments at such "homey" tasks as repairing the doorstep, painting the porch, trimming the trees or planting a bit of shrubbery.

By doing these things, he not only builds a better home for his family, but the resale value of the property is materially increased, which makes the property a better investment. An improvement that costs but $300 often adds $1,000 to the value of a home.

MARKET DEVOID OF EXCITEMENT

Bullish Forces Dominating New York Exchange—Many Advances Recorded

(Branson, Brown & Co., Ltd.)

NEW YORK, May 26.—Today's market has been devoid of any excitement, although the bullish forces were in the saddle. Their effective activities took place in the earlier hours of the session and resulted in many instances of two-point advances or more in several of the leading favorites such as United States Steel, Consolidated Gas, Electric Power & Light, United Aircraft, General Electric, Westinghouse and others.

The final few minutes of trading developed some profit taking, which caused several to react to Saturday's close, but on the whole the list maintained its bullish tone. The afternoon hours showed a considerable slowing up in turnover, but with no disposition on the part of prices to recede except in the very last transactions. There was no particular news developments to back up the upturn, but there is apparently a feeling that the market has reached a resistance point and the accumulations by moderate term traders serve to easily buoy prices.

The professionals who hitherto have been active on the bearish side seem to have come to the conclusion that conditions do not warrant further efforts in that direction for the present. One constructive influence perhaps was the letter put out by a prominent and well regarded statistical organization in which they expressed the view in quite positive terms that accumulation of good stocks, with emphasis on the good, was advisable at this time, provided they can be held five or six weeks. We believe the market will continue to hold its resistance level and selective accumulation at this time is recommended in anticipation of an ultimate but not too distant broad advance.

Market Being Tested Now Whitney Says

(Branson, Brown & Co., Ltd.)

NEW YORK, May 26.—Whitney, of the Wall Street Financial Bureau, says:

The reactionary tendencies which, in today's session gained sufficient momentum at the close to cancel practically all the day's rise which preceded it, simply shows us that up to the present the attitude maintained here for the past week, and which called for staying out of recent sessions, is being pretty well justified up to the present.

It will be remembered that the predominating thought back of the cautious attitude given you is that having a market essentially characterized by dullness provided us with little foundation to warrant commitments on the long side until such time as, instead of its dullness, there would be substituted a real test in the form of sufficient trading on a volume turnover to show where and when large interests were willing to buy their stocks. It has been assumed that some accumulation was present, but that it had not become large enough in leading stocks, nor present in enough individual issues to prove a safe conclusion the market would go higher.

The important thing now is that the closing selling of today will undoubtedly bring us in tomorrow's market to the point where the test will be administered. I think that within the confines of tomorrow's session we shall be enabled to see whether the banking interests as a group see sufficient probability of a nearby turn in business to warrant their going in on the buying side of enough issues to bring about the successful culmination of this test. This attitude on their part, and the corresponding buying orders from its adoption should accomplish the net result of supporting and turning stocks within 2 to 4 points from the prices at which they closed last night, and the reluctance to do any buying that is near to today's prices will simply indicate on the other hand that nothing is in sight "around the corner" in business of sufficiently favorable nature to warrant the extension of support until a later date, and at substantially lower prices.

In other words, I believe that by tomorrow's close we shall be permitted to witness the type of day's performance which will rather definitely eliminate the uncertainties of a dull market and force banking interests to show their hand to the mutual satisfaction of everybody concerned.

WHEAT HIGHER AFTER HOLIDAY

Advance at Winnipeg Continues During Session, Though Trade Volume Not Large

COARSE GRAINS ALL CONTINUE QUIET

(Branson, Brown & Co., Ltd.)

WINNIPEG, May 26.—Wheat opened about ¾ cent higher this morning following the holiday Saturday in this market, with a little buying by eastern interests and the advance continued until prices were 2¼ cents above the close Friday.

There was also some buying by Chicago and some short covering, but actually the feature was the scarcity of offerings, and the trade volume was not large. High winds and dust storms prevailed over the Canadian West Sunday, and there were damage reports coming from several districts. Chicago was relatively stronger than Winnipeg, and this helped the local market. Liverpool closed 1⅝ to 1¾ higher, when due 1⅛ to ⅝ higher.

The demand for cash wheat was inclined to be somewhat easier and spreads on some grades were ¼ off, but holders were not pressing. There was only a fair business done for export business over our long weekend, but many believe that the volume of the business being done is larger than is being reported locally. There was a good demand for durums, but round lots are difficult to buy. Showers, from light to moderately heavy, were received in Alberta and western parts of Saskatchewan.

The Canadian visible decreased 5,818,000 and U.S. visible decreased 3,811,000 bushels, all of which seems to indicate a fair business going on and improved from what it was. A few unfavorable crop reports are being received from Europe, but generally these crops are believed to be in fairly good shape. We advise purchase of wheat on all sharp dips.

Coarse grains continued quiet, with very little going on. Prices were higher, but largely in sympathy with the strength in wheat. Business in cash coarse grains is dull and confined to a few odd cars being worked to Eastern Canada. Oats closed ⅞ to ⅝ up, barley ¾ to ½ up and rye ¾ to 1¾ higher.

Flax market advanced rather sharply, closing 6 to 7 cents over the close Friday, but there was very little going on and nothing of feature, outside of light offerings.

ANACONDA'S LOST TOOLS RECOVERED

Drilling Proceeding at Over 3,000 Feet—Red Coulee Well Increases Production

(Miller, Court & Co., Ltd.)

CALGARY, May 26.—Recovery of lost tools at Anaconda No. 1, north of central Turner Valley, is reported in a statement issued by the Oil Well Drilling & Finance Company, Limited. The hole is in good condition, with drilling proceeding at 3,010 feet, more than 200 feet beyond the point at which the tools were lost.

British Dominion shareholders at their annual meeting here Friday re-elected their board of directors, and heard encouraging operating reports. It was stated possible that the company would drill henceforth only as far as McDougall Segur sands, instead of the limestone, if the present operation, No. 3, showed these sands to be favorable for small production as demonstrated by the Widney well nearby. Cost and time would be halved, it was pointed out. The company's producer had returned a revenue of $54,000. Directors elected were: J. H. Goodwin, president and managing-director; M. C. Costello, vice-president; A. H. Goodall, W. Matthews, Dr. R. M. Cook and T. M. Webb. Hardie Turnbull is secretary-treasurer. Shareholders were informed the total cost of the abandoned No. 1 well was $161,702, No. 2 $174,292 and No. 3 up to March 31 $925. Building and equipment are valued at $44,519; investments at $79,143, accounts and royalties payable total $8,372.

President and officers of the Alberta Oil & Gas Association will be appointed at a meeting of the recently elected director in the boardroom of H. K. Reid & Co., Ltd., on Wednesday evening, it is announced.

Production test at the Hargal well was the high light of the Imperial drilling report issued at the end of last week. The test was being made 275 feet in the limestone.

Throwing new light on the production possibilities of the Red Coulee field, Cosmos Iowa No. 1 recently has voluntarily increased its daily yield to nearly 450 barrels daily, according to word from the border area. At present rate of production it is thought that May production rate will reach 15,000 barrels. Meanwhile the company's No. 2 site is the scene of preparations to spud in early this week.

Shareholders of Widney Oils, Limited, have definitely decided not to drill another well in Turner Valley at the present time at any rate, it was stated by Frank Freeze, president of the company, yesterday. The present central Turner Valley producer yielded 2,280 barrels last month at the rate of more than seventy barrels daily. As the income from this well is building a considerable surplus, the small body of shareholders has decided to be satisfied with this yield.

Intending to proceed with the first well at once, Dome Oils has subleased from Okalta twenty acres a short distance south of the latter company's central Turner Valley producer, it is announced by W. S. Heron, vice-president of Okalta. The deal was on a 20 per cent loyalty basis for oil and gas production. Property is in the southern half of L.S.D. 16, section 26, township 19. It is understood that Dome will undertake operations immediately. The derrick timbers from the company's abandoned northern Turner Valley venture are being moved to the new drilling site. Casing has been salvaged from the old Dome well.

SAN ANTONIO VEIN SHOWING UP WELL

Work Now Proceeding in Wide Zone of Mineralization In Crosscut

(Mason & Diespecker)

TORONTO, May 26.—Since completing its winze from the 725 to the 975-foot level, work at the San Antonio Mines has been reduced to two shifts, according to D. J. Kennedy, manager. Last month work was mainly confined to the 903 crosscut and 616 drifts. At present work is proceeding in a wide zone of mineralization in the 903 crosscut, but no drifting will be done until after the 616 vein has been reached. The vein is showing up well in the 616 raise, the manager states, and is returning average values of about $14 to the ton.

Notwithstanding that the Cobalt reduction mill has closed down and shipments have ceased for the present, development at the Cobalt Contact is proceeding on an uninterrupted scale, according to company officials. Two thousand tons of ore were shipped during the month of April, from which a recovery of about 50,000 ounces were were obtained from high grade ore.

A combined width of some twenty-eight feet of ore is indicated in the two veins intersected by diamond drill in hole No. 11 in the Springer property at Opemiska Lake, and an average value of over $35 per ton in the ore across this width of twenty-eight feet has fanned the enthusiasm of those who are pinning their fortunes to this newest of Quebec's mining fields.

MOVING WITHIN NARROW RANGE

GENERAL AMERICAN TANK AFFECTED BY TWO OPPOSITE FACTORS

Maintains Liberal Dividend Policy—General Railway Signal In Favorable Position

(B.C. Bond Corporation, Ltd.)

NEW YORK, May 26.—On account of its conservative nature, General American Tank continues moving within a narrow range. Two opposite factors operate in the case of this stock. As a railway equipment issue it suffers in common with others in its group, while as a tank car enterprise the company benefits from the improved prospects in the oil industry.

We are of the opinion that the brighter side will exert a greater effect upon its market price. With the steady rise in demand for gasoline there will be a growing requirement for tank cars during the coming months. Inasmuch as the company has demonstrated its ability of efficient management, its profits from the tank car rentals should show steady expansion.

General American Tank maintains a liberal dividend policy and in periods of prosperity stockholders have had the advantage of extra disbursements. We regard the outlook for General American Tank for the coming months sufficiently attractive to warrant new commitments.

General Railways Signal: In common with the rest of the list this issue has not done anything striking during the recent markets, but its position is sufficiently favorable to anticipate a resumption of the advance in the not distant future. The situation surrounding General Railway Signal is highly satisfactory. The company found itself with a large volume of orders on hand at the beginning of the current year and earnings for the first quarter of 1930 showed a substantial gain over the corresponding period last year, with futher improvement indicated for the second quarter. Replacement business is developing at a brisk rate, and this means that future earnings will be more stable. New orders are also accumulating steadily and the outlook for the balance of 1930 is therefore highly promising.

Market wise, these prospects have only been discounted to a moderate extent, and there is, therefore, ample room for further expansion. At its current price around $95 the stock yields a return of approximately 5.3 per cent on cost, which, in itself, is very attractive in view of present money conditions. Being in a favorable technical position and having the benefit of the sustaining influence of continued prosperity, General Railway Signal can be expected to show substantial gains as soon as the list as a whole shows a renewed upward trend. Commitments are suggested.

AMULET MINE TO KEEP PRODUCING

Low Copper Price Does Not Wipe Out Profit Entirely—Hopeful of New Ore

(Meharey, Roe & Co., Ltd.)

"There is no likelihood of Amulet having to close its operations," said a director of that company, when asked how this new producer is likely to weather the copper storm. He added that at 12½ cents copper, Amulet would make about $15,000 a month profit, and did not believe that the market for the metal would sink so low as to cause difficulties. At 18 cents copper it would have made $50,000 at least, every month.

If the situation presents hopes of higher prices, Amulet can hold its copper a month or two for a better market. Shipments of concentrates to the Noranda smelter for conversion to blister copper would continue, of course, but the metal would be withheld from the market. The company is well financed, and, if necessary, can borrow money on blister. This director hoped that the bottom price had been seen at 12½ cents, but he was not sure that there would not be flurries before the large existing stocks were disposed of. He regretted that Amulet's ore reserves were being used at a time when the market was poor. The situation was not of their making and there seemed to be only one course—to go ahead with milling and to continue exploration in full expectation that new ore bodies would be discovered from time to time.

The new exploration campaign is swinging ahead at the property. There are several good geological chances to be tested out, and confidence was held that the Summer will see discoveries of importance. It was recalled that last year's exploration programme provided good results shortly after the season opened, the "F" orebody being discovered in July.

Amulet's copper production should run at a rate of upwards of 10,000,000 pounds annually, plus moderate precious metal recoveries. Zinc concentrates secured in the course of copper production are being stored against a better market, as present zinc prices prohibit the shipment and sale of concentrates. Amulet's directors note with interest that zinc quotations have strengthened fractionally during the past week, following their uninterrupted decline of the past eight months.

PRINCE HENRY IS VANCOUVER BOUND

New Vessel for Service to Alaska Makes Top Speed of 23.59 Knots

VANCOUVER, May 26. — Ss. Prince Henry, the first of the three new steamships constructed during the Winter at Birkenhead, England, for the Canadian National Railways, will arrive at Vancouver on June 16.

The trials of the new ship were entirely satisfactory and company officials present expressed their pleasure at the result. During the trials a top speed of 23.59 knots was reached with an average speed of 23.7 knots. Later during the endurance trial when the ship was run for twelve hours without a stop a speed of 22.25 knots was maintained, which allowed for an ample margin of boiler power.

Captains Nedden and Gilbert, who were aboard for the trials, were quite satisfied with the way the boat performed and especially the way she handled in steering and turning circles. The ship responded well in both pitching and rolling seas.

It is expected that Ss. Prince Henry will make calls at Liverpool, Fayal, St. Thomas, Colon, Acapulco and San Pedro. Captain A. J. Gilbert will have charge of the ship in crossing and will be met at San Pedro by Capt. Dan Donald, commodore of the Canadian National Pacific Coast Steamships fleet, who will bring her to Vancouver. Captain Donald will then take permanent charge of this ship which will be placed in the Alaskan service, making her first trip from Vancouver for the North on July 3, for which heavy bookings have been announced.

The Puget Sound Tug & Barge Company's tug Sea King arrived at 9:30 o'clock Sunday morning in command of Captain J. Thurston. She left for Seattle with four booms of logs.

AIRCRAFT COMPANIES TO COMBINE

Fokker Planning Organization Corresponding to General Motors in Automobile Field

GERMAN ANNUITIES LOAN INTERESTS

NEW YORK, May 26.—Organization of a company designed to occupy the same place in aviation as General Motors Corporation holds in the automobile industry is seen in the plans of the Fokker Aircraft Corporation, announced yesterday, to change its name to General Aviation Corporation and becomes a holding company. It now is a manufacturer and distributing company. The plan for General Aviation Corporation is to take over the present Fokker company as a subsidiary, and acquire the Dornier Company of America, in both of which companies General Motors Corporation has working control. The Dornier Company of Amercia was formed last October by General Motors and the Fokker company. While details of the ownership of the stock of the new company were not announced, it is expected that after its organization General Motors Corporation will have more than a majority of the outstanding stock.

Comparison of the quarterly reports for this year with those for the first three months of the record year of 1929 disclosed that while the companies showing decreases in earnings predominate there were increases reported by more than one-third of the concerns in all fields from which comparisons are available. Of 170 industrial companies 67 show increases in earnings on each share, while 103 report decreases. In the public utilities field of nineteen on which comparisons are available, ten had increases. The railroads make the worst showing; twenty-one of twenty-four companies having had decreases. In the industrials field the quarterly reports show definitely decreased business in the automobile and steel lines, but otherwise neither the increases nor the decreases had a definite trend. In the amusement field companies showing increases in earnings predominate. The food companies even in the specialty lines doing about the same amount of business as last year, according to indications in the quarterly reports.

Not since the annual French loan was marketed here in 1915 by a nation-wide group of about 2,000 banks and banking houses throughout the country has there been as much interest evinced in a foreign loan as there has been in the forthcoming German annuities loan, which will be placed on the market, probably early next week. Issued through the Bank for International Settlements, the loan in effect being a discounting of reparations. The amount to be raised is $3,000,000,000, but inasmuch the bonds are to be sold below par, probably at 91 in most of the financial markets of the world, with the further deduction for underwriters' commissions, the total amount to be offered will be in excess of $3,000,000,000 to the extent of 10 or 12 per cent.

The only details of the loan that have been made public thus far are that the issue will carry a 5.5 per cent coupon and will mature in thirty-five years. The sinking fund features have not been disclosed, except that they will be governed by the German reparations schedule as provided for in the Young plan. The net returns to the investors here will be perhaps close to 5.20 per cent. The American portion of the loan is to be large enough to yield about $85,000,000.

Dow Jones averages: Thirty industrials, high 272.15, low 268.79, last 271.33, up 1.32; twenty rails, high 145.21, low 144.30, last 145.11, up .66; twenty utilities 99.92, up .76; forty bonds 95.21, off .06.

COMING WEST

MONTREAL, May 26.—Mr. Howard A. Falk, for several years director of Financial Federation of Montreal, is resigning to leave for Vancouver to organize a financial federation in that city on the same basis as the one in Montreal.

Mr. Falk has been a director of Financial Federation here since 1922, organizing an annual public appeal for funds to carry on some forty charitable institutions.

Sound pictures are being made in Finland.

Before the 29th!

A Great National Organization With Assets of $1,090,000,000

At present market prices, and in view of rights to be given to shareholders on record as of May 29, the yield of Cities Service Company common stock for this year will be approximately 10%.

Cities Service has a successful expansion record, a good earning record, a good dividend record, sound future prospects, efficient management, and a very far-sighted policy. It is believed to have the world's largest list of security holders, numbering approximately 750,000.

Assets increased $176,634,964 last year, cash assets $61,349,601. Gross earnings were $185,851,053, net earnings $69,734,315, an increase of $5,686,268 over the previous year. Monthly earnings for 1930 are increasing over 1929.

The company has large public utility interests and is an important factor in the domestic oil and natural gas industries. It has important subsidiaries in these three industries.

We recommend this security because we consider it safe and because of its yield. Many leading bankers are advocating its purchase.

Land and Water Events Contested at Nanaimo

Empire Day Programme Is Carried Out, Occupying Eight-Hour Period — Wind and Rain Hamper Committee

NANAIMO, May 26.—The sports programme for May 24 was the most varied held in Nanaimo for several years, consisting of track and field races, cross-country races, swimming and diving competitions, and canoe races, the sports running throughout the day from 10 o'clock in the morning to 6 o'clock at night. A strong wind, laden with hail and rain, put a damper on the large number of entries for the aquatic sports in the morning, but several competitors were brave enough to enter the icy waters, and a large crowd gravitated towards the waterfront to see the races, in spite of the weather. The feature event of the morning was the eleven-paddle Indian canoe race, which the Cooper Island Indians won by nearly a boat length from the Nanaimo Indians.

The cold rain and wind let up in the afternoon, and the track and field events were run under ideal conditions at the Gyros' new kiddies' playground No. 2, the opening of which was the feature event of the day.

CRICKET IS WON BY CUMBERLAND

Courtenay Defeated in Empire Day Match, 68 to 45, in Showery Weather

CUMBERLAND, May 26.—The annual May 24 cricket game between Cumberland and Courtenay was played on Saturday at Cumberland as part of the Empire Day celebrations. The game was played under adverse weather conditions, rain interfering with play three times before the finish. Courtenay won the toss and put the home team in to bat. J. Idiens and C. V. Dando facing the bowling of McLaughlin and Grier. Idiens was dismissed after making four runs, and Dando and Robathan were the only two Cumberland players to reach double figures. The former played good cricket on a sticky pitch for a very valuable twenty-eight. The whole side was dismissed for sixty-eight runs.

On Courtenay going in to bat, with Rossiter and Galloway facing the bowling of Vernon-Jones and Gough, disaster soon fell to the visitors, Rossiter being dismissed with the second ball of the first over by the former, while Gough dismissed P. Ellis with the first he delivered. Four Courtenay wickets were down for six runs, Vernon-Jones dismissing Galloway after making only two runs, Gough getting Inglis, l.b.w., shortly after. McLaughlin brought a ray of hope to the Courtenay eleven with a few boundary hits, Captain Hall displaced Gough, going on to bowl himself and dismissing McLaughlin with the first ball delivered. The visiting captain had made a good seventeen before playing on. Hall and Vernon-Jones continued the bowling to the finish, Hall having the wonderful average of five wickets for two runs; Gough three for twelve, and Vernon-Jones two for twenty-one. Following are the scores:

HOLIDAY EXODUS EMPTIES LADYSMITH

Many Leave Town for Celebrations Elsewhere, and for Neighboring Beaches

LADYSMITH, May 24.—In all the years of this city's eventful history, Empire Day of 1930 will be recorded as one of the quietest holidays celebrated within the limits of Ladysmith.

Within an hour of dawn, sleekly polished motors turned gently towards the Island Highway and roared northward or southward, as fancy dictated, to spend the day. The morning sun shone gloriously, and even the most obstinate of pessimists grudgingly admitted that for once Empire Day looked like departing from the traditional inclemency.

The gathering clouds, that finally sent a heavy downpour of rain before noon, could not deter the people in holiday mood, and early in the day, the exodus found these streets lonely and deserted.

Picnic parties to the coves and nooks across the bay were numerous; the Empire Day celebration at Nanaimo took many hundreds of Ladysmith's residents; Vancouver claimed some; a few hiked and fished in the neighboring streams, and the remainder, apparently, sojourned to Victoria to participate in the festivities in the capital.

Late in the evening, after hours of the steady blare of returning automobiles and disgorging stages, Ladysmith demonstrated something of the gaiety of a very quiet Sunday afternoon, and even the oldest resident is forced to the confession that he had a restful day.

Bishop of Kobe to Visit in Metchosin

METCHOSIN, May 26.—The Right Reverend John Basil Simpson, Bishop of Kobe, who is passing through Victoria on his way from Japan to the Lambeth Conference, will be the guest of Rev. Gemmill for a few days. It is hoped that the bishop will be at the silver tea which is to be given by the women's auxiliary on Wednesday afternoon at "Crosby Farm," the home of Mrs. Gavin Weir.

Donation Party

Members of Christ Church Cathedral Men's Guild are reminded that the donation party will be held at 8 p.m. tonight at the Deanery. A considerable number of invitations have been issued, and a number of musical selections will form part of the programme.

WEATHER MAN NONE TOO KIND

HAILSTORM INTERFERES WITH MAY 24 CELEBRATION AT CUMBERLAND

Delays and Obstacles Soon Overcome and Community Enjoys a Happy Day

CUMBERLAND, May 26.—There was a large number of visitors to Cumberland on Saturday for the annual May 24 celebration, and the stores on the main street and residences along the route of the parade were gaily decorated for the occasion. This year a little novelty was added to the annual affair by bringing in from Vancouver a well-known ladies' pipe band, under Pipe-Major Begg, of the 72nd Seaforths.

Through a misunderstanding, the band did not arrive in Cumberland until 10 a.m., after the parade had been advertised to start at 9 a.m. sharp. The delay worked a hardship on the sports committee, as races all through the day had to be rushed in order to make up for the time lost at the start.

As soon as the pipers arrived, however, no time was lost in getting the parade under way, but unfortunately, just as the parade was nearing the end of the route a very heavy hailstorm started, making all spectators rush for cover. Little children in the parade were soon drenched and many an anxious mother lost no time in getting their youngsters home and clothing changed. The storm did not last long and the programme was entered into about one hour and a half late. There followed in rapid succession, after the usual ceremony of crowning the queen, Miss Alma Magnone, of Union Bay, sports for the young children. Starters and judges had a busy time and by lunch time about forty minutes of the lost time had been made up. In the afternoon, Highland dancing exhibitions were put on, Miss Isdale, of Vancouver, kindly consenting to judge the various events. In addition to the running and jumping events a grass hockey game between Cumberland and Courtenay was staged, the latter winning by one goal to none, after a very fast game.

One of the major attractions of the day was the firemen's competition, open to all members of volunteer fire departments. In years gone by, this contest has usually been between Cumberland and Courtenay, but the Alberni firefighters decided to enter a team this year, making it a three-cornered contest. The main street, where the tests were held, was thronged. After a very spirited contest and amidst great excitement Cumberland won over Alberni in the final, their time being one of the best ever known in a contest.

Considering the day was cold and stormy at the start of the proceedings, everything went off very smoothly, and the committee, who gave freely of their time and energy to make Cumberland a happy place on May 24, deserve great credit.

SIR PERCY LAKE VISITS NORTH SAANICH BRANCH

BRENTWOOD, May 26.—Sir Percy Lake, K.C.B., K.C.M.G., past Dominion president of the Canadian Legion, was the principal speaker at the meeting of the ex-service men, held in the Institute Hall, Brentwood, under the auspices of the North Saanich branch of the legion.

Comrade Nat Gray, president of the North Saanich branch, who presided over the meeting, welcomed Sir Percy Lake. Comrade Alan Colbert, of Deep Cove, was elected delegate to the provincial convention of the legion at Nelson. The following were voted to membership: Major W. Garrard, Mr. A. Hydes, Mr. L. G. Bristowe, A. Ingram and A. Lacousiere.

At the close of the meeting a pleasant social hour, in charge of Comrade H. A. Blakey, was enjoyed. Except in case of emergency, the branch will not meet again until September.

Alert Bay Features Empire Day With Games and Sports

ALERT BAY, May 26.—The Empire Day festivities at Alert Bay really began the day before, when the girls' team at the Indian residential school challenged the girls' team at the public school to a game of softball, the result being that the public school won with a score of 25 to 12.

From 10 o'clock on May 24 until 6 o'clock the children were kept busy and happy running races and watching games, and with plenty of ice cream, hot dogs and soft drinks to fill in the intervals. The great event of the day was the soccer game between the Kinkcome and Alert Bay Indians. After a hotly contested game they finished with a goal for each side. The game is to be played again on June 3 to decide which side has the handsome silver cup.

The baseball game between the Englewood Beavers (a Japanese Team), and the Alert Bay Indians resulted in a win for Alert Bay, the score being 6 to 4.

THREE HURT IN CAR ACCIDENTS

NANAIMO, May 26.—Mr. James Wark, of Duncan, was taken to the local hospital yesterday suffering from a cut in the neck, as the result of a car accident on Rosehill Avenue on Saturday. Mr. C. Stevens rendered first aid, and, but for his timely arrival, Mr. Wark might have died, for he was bleeding profusely.

When the auto in which they were riding from Nanaimo to Lantzville, on Saturday afternoon, overturned near Big Lake, Mrs. Vansickle sustained three broken ribs and her grandchild suffered a broken leg.

Elk Hotel May Golf Tournament Played at Comox

COMOX BAY, May 26.—In spite of the weather, which doubtless kept many people away, a very successful little tournament was held on the Comox golf course on Friday, Saturday and Sunday. The ladies particularly showed great enthusiasm and keenness, by playing through the rainstorms. The final results were as follows: Medal play (low net score), won by Mrs. G. Smith, of Vancouver, and the Eclectic prize by Miss Machaffie, of Vancouver.

The result of the men's competition was kept in doubt right to the end, Mr. Bob Filberg, a club member, finally carrying off the medal prize, and Mr. Howard M. Archibald winning the Eclectic.

Cowichan Health Centre Committee Holds Meeting

DUNCAN, May 26.—The monthly meeting of the Cowichan Health Centre committee was held at the Health Centre on Friday afternoon. Mrs. Moss, O.B.E., presided. There was a small attendance. Routine business was transacted. Mrs. T. Pitt presented the treasurer's report. Miss B. Mitchell, R.N., read the nursing report for April. Arrangements have been made with Dr. H. E. Young, provincial officer of health, to have Miss Miller continue on the nursing staff until the end of June.

Auction and Contract Bidding

South	1st Rd.	2nd Rd.
West	1 N. T.	Pass
North	Double
East	Pass
	Pass

There are still many players who believe, or who are told by those who believe, that an informative double impresses an absolute obligation upon partner of doubler to make a bid of some sort.

In many circles a leave-in of an informative double is regarded as an Auction crime, as would be the case if partner of doubler is weak, but as would not be the case if partner of doubler is not weak.

To clarify this situation, I quote briefly the principle that should govern players when in doubt whether to leave in or take out a Negative Double.

Weakness at no time justifies partner in leaving in a Negative suit or No Trump double. If partner's cards warrant the presumption that if double is left in, opponent will in all probability make contract, partner has absolutely no option—he must take out.

A fallacy or error, common with many players, is that partner of doubler is obligated at all times to take out a Negative Double—a fallacy quite as ridiculous in its way as would be one to the effect that partner is obligated at all times to leave in a Positive Double.

If player doubles Negatively an adverse No Trump and partner's cards warrant the presumption that if double is taken out with a bid of two in a suit or with two No Trumps, that doubler and partner may or may not be able to score a game, but if double is left in, that the adversaries' No Trump should be defeated, the partner should leave in rather than take out such double.

At two of the tables, where South opened with one No Trump and West doubled, the East player, following a pass by North, also passed, leaving West's Informative Double in.

It should be noted that such pass by East is what is known as a "Business Pass," and as such is tantamount to a bid, or rather to a Business Double by East, as by passing he has changed West's Informative Double to a Business Double.

It thus follows that, if South tries to extricate himself by now bidding two of a suit and West should again double, such double would be a Business Double, and, therefore, one not meant to again demand a bid by East.

I have had many inquiries regarding the meaning of a second double by West following a business pass by East, and, therefore, take this occasion to give a clear explanation of the meaning of a second double in such a situation.

Another possible situation that could arise here is for South, following East's business pass, to redouble. The meaning of such redouble is not that South feels strong enough to fulfill his contract, because if sure of making one No Trump, he would be foolish to redouble to warn opponents to this effect and thus permit them to extricate themselves with their best suit bid; consequently, the meaning of such redouble is clearly a demand for a suit take-out by partner. Hence, should South, in the above situation, redouble, and West pass, North would be obligated to take out with two Spades, which East, with four Spades to the Jack-Nine, would promptly double positively, as his previous business pass makes any subsequent double by his a business rather than an Informative Double.

South, however, with the cards actually held, prefers to take his chance with one No Trump doubled rather than to try to extricate himself with either a doubtful suit or doubtful S O S redouble.

SALIENT POINTS OF THE BIDDING

Auction and Contract: South opens the bidding with one No Trump. West, with no well defined opening lead and strong supporting values in both Majors, doubles informatively. North passing, East, with supporting honors in all four suits, or in other words, well able to support any opening West might make, passes, to indicate his preference for playing the hand for penalties rather than for a doubtful game. South, with no sound "out" also passes, concluding the bidding.

THE PLAY

West opens the Six of Hearts. The Dummy going down, East plays the Queen and South the Ace. South, with a practically trickless Dummy, puts up the best defence possible by leading the Jack of Diamonds in hope of driving the Ace, and thus enabling him to enter the Dummy to finesse his Jack of Clubs, hoping to find East with the Queen. East, however, refuses to win with his Ace. South, not positive as to who holds the Ace of Diamonds, leads the Two of Diamonds towards the Queen in Dummy, hoping to find West with the Ace. East, however, wins the Queen with the Ace, and, knowing from West's double that he should hold at least three Spades, and if so, then with four Spades in Dummy and four in own hand, South can hold but two, takes this opportunity not only to show his own long suit but establish a trick or two therein, if his reading of the Spade situation be correct. He, therefore, leads the Four of Spades, South plays the Three, hoping the four Spades in Dummy to the Ten will aid to protect that suit. West wins with the Queen of Spades, and reading West's Four as his fourth-best card of suit, and South with but one more Spade, lays down his Ace of Spades, followed by the Seven.

It should be noted that West does not at this stage make his three good Hearts. His reason for this that to do so may embarrass partner more than opponents and also he holds his Ace of Clubs for entry to make his good Hearts later on.

East, with the Jack-Nine-Ten-Ace over the Ten-Eight of Spades in Dummy, covers Dummy's eight with the nine, and lays down his good Jack of Spades, South discarding the ten and eight of Hearts and West, the two of Clubs. East now leads the ten of Diamonds, as South's discard in the fourth round of Spades, that of the eight of Diamonds, clearly evidences that South is trying to protect his Club holding, and, hence, if thrown into the lead may not be able to extricate himself without the loss of an additional trick or tricks. South wins with the King of Diamonds, West discarding the four of Clubs. This practically concludes the play, as South must now lead away from his Club holding. With no indication which Club to lead, he tries the Jack, which West ducks and East wins with the Queen and makes his good nine of Diamonds. The remaining tricks are won by West with the Ace of Clubs and good Hearts, thus setting South four tricks, the penalty for which, if doubled when Not Vulnerable, is 600 points, and if doubled when Vulnerable, 1,400 points.

At not one table, however, where West's informative double was left in by East, did East and West secure this maximum penalty. The most any East and West pair set the hand was three tricks, and at one table but two tricks—the latter a saving for South, as at practically every table where East took out West's double with Spades, East made four odd on the hand.

TWO GAMES ARE WELL PLAYED

JUNIOR SOCCER STAR TEAM DRAWS WITH ST. ANDREWS AT NANAIMO

Nanaimo Baseball Team Beats Alberni Aggregation by Fifteen to Seven

NANAIMO, B.C., May 26. — A heavy sport attraction was awarded sport fans here Sunday afternoon when a Nanaimo all-star team of junior soccer players drew with St. Andrew's, of Vancouver, 2-2, in an exhibition football game before a packed grandstand, 300 spectators and the St. Andrew's kilts band having accompanied their team from Vancouver; and the Nanaimo baseball team doubled the score on the visiting Alberni team, 15-7, in the first league baseball game of the season played here.

The football game immediately followed the baseball game. During the first half the local team scored two goals, earned five corners, and had the visitors on the defensive nearly every minute of the play. The first score of the game came fifteen minutes from the start when Paul, for Nanaimo, placed a perfect corner kick, and White headed the ball into the net. Keeping up the pressure, Nanaimo forced four more corners, and within three minutes of half-time White, Nanaimo's centre forward, made a stellar solo play by carrying the ball past the two backs and the goalie for his second count, giving Nanaimo a lead of 2-0 in the first half.

In the second half the Saints came back strong and were awarded four corners within eight minutes of play. After an endless series of attacks the visitors, through Stevens, broke the spiderweb in the Nanaimo goal mouth for their first counter, after twenty-five minutes of play. Kulai, for the Saints, evened the score a few minutes later with a neat drive into the corner of the net. Over 3,000 spectators witnessed the game, which was refereed by Mat Guinness, and the players were:

St. Andrew's—Groots; Watson and Edmunds; Wilson, Nate and Arnott; Stevens, Kulai, Strang, Surtees and Stone.

Nanaimo—Bernadelli; Boyd and Krall; Jordon, Watson and Waugh; Paul, Tussin, White, G. Gray and Sandland.

NANAIMO WINS EASILY

In the baseball game Alberni failed to get a mark from the Nanaimo battery, Edmunds and Courtenay, in the first three stanzas, while Nanaimo ran up one run in the first inning and five runs in the third. After that both teams played close baseball, but Nanaimo held too good a lead and had the edge on the play. The score by innings and the players are as follows:

Alberni ..... 0 0 0 0 3 1 3 0 0 0— 7
Nanaimo ..... 1 0 5 0 1 3 3 2 x—15

Alberni—Mulligan, Miller, Thompson, North, Patterson, Motion, Williamson, Kennedy and Macdonald.

Nanaimo—Kulai, J. Zaccarreill, James, Courtenay, Watchorne, Rice, Edmunds, Millard and Rees.

A DIFFERENT MAN

The department store was crowded with shoppers when an agitated lady approached the dignified shopwalker.

"Please can you help me?" she begged. "I promised to meet my husband in this department over an hour ago. I was wondering if you had noticed him?"

The shopwalker was politely eager to help.

"How would you describe him, madam? Is he a short man with a fresh complexion?"

"Oh, no," answered the distressed lady. "By this time he will be towering and white with rage."

NEW DISCOVERY DUE TO BLAST

Explosion Showed Method of Making Flexible Record for Phonograph

NEW YORK, May 26.—An explosion has shown how to make phonograph records that bend like paper. This blow-up, in a Columbia university chemical laboratory, came queerly enough not from expansion, but sudden contraction. It led to the discovery of a new substance, durium, that produces a phonograph record as flexible as paper, but so hard it does not scratch or break under a hammer blow.

The "accident" was no lucky break, but the climax of years of work that began with the idea of a New York manufacturer, Joseph Reilly. Reilly's business included electroplating, the process that hardens a thin film of copper into forms that print words and pictures. By some singular process he dreamed of making phonograph records. After spending $200,000 without success he consulted Dr. Hal T. Beans, professor of chemistry at Columbia. Beans said the scheme was all but "impossible," but he was willing to experiment with it.

He believed the secret of the process to be in certain synthetic resins that harden when heated. He cooked nearly 800 tubes, but none hardened fast enough. Then, as heat penetrated another tube one day there was a sharp hiss, and some of the liquor shot to the ceiling. The resin had hardened at explosion speed. The riddle was solved.

Heavy paper is coated with this resin from three to five-thousands of an inch thick. The touch of a hot form instantly transforms it into an indelible record.

KEEP THE DRAINS CLEAR

If your bathtub and sink and toilet were stopped up, you would no doubt send out a hurry call for the plumber to discover the cause of the obstruction in the sewage system of your home. Most people do not become alarmed when the sewage system in their own bodies becomes clogged, and yet the body is throwing off refuse material which must be carted away and disposed of in some manner which nature has well provided.

The waste products of metabolism are constantly being thrown out by various channels, some through the skin, some through the lungs, some through the kidneys, and a large portion is changed into bile and used again as a digestive fluid to be eliminated by the intestines. If the elimination from any of these channels is imperfect there is grave danger that some of these wastes (hence poisons) will be again re-absorbed into the circulation. Each time this clogging occurs, the systematic poisoning is greater, and finally the body may be so impregnated with such virulent toxins that disease readily develops. There is no doubt that one of the greatest causes of disease is an impure blood stream. The blood must be kept pure, as it carries the food which supplies life to all of the organs and tissues of the body. Whenever a partial clogging takes place a dangerous cesspool, is formed, which may poison the entire system.

The large colon, by acting as a storage place for most of the solid secretions is very likely to be a source of systematic poisoning, especially as in some cases the waste material backs up into the small intestines where it is readily absorbed. Either partial or complete constipation is bound to permit some of the retained poisons to be forced back into the circulation to be handled by the liver. Unless the colon empties normally, its contents, really consisting of garbage, become decayed and fermented.

Whenever you find that your system is becoming toxic, you feel sluggish or tire readily, or have any of the pre-disease symptoms, you may be sure that a dangerous cesspool has developed some place in your system. Some of the organs of elimination have become clogged. You will usually find that this condition is caused by such things as: using too much food; using bad combinations; using an excess of starches or sugars; not obtaining enough exercise; having weak abdominal muscles; not obtaining enough fresh air; allowing yourself to become enervated, or not obtaining enough sleep.

You can usually get rid of these dangerous cesspools by correcting the cause and undergoing an eliminative diet and the right kind of treatments. After this you can maintain good health if you will learn to live so that the eliminative organs do not again become obstructed.

CHINA BRIGANDRY ON THE INCREASE

All Reports From East Agree That Evil Has Grown to Vast Proportions

SHANGHAI, May 26.—Church, press and consular reports indicate a considerable increase in banditry throughout China during the first months of this year. In some districts it is estimated that more than half the total population is engaged in looting and plundering their neighbors as the last means of obtaining a living. Civil war, famine and the coldest Winter in years are the chief causes of the wars. In the South China provinces excessive taxation is the principal force that has led the people to take up banditry, while in Central China and in the North, the war, starvation and cold has served to drive huge hordes of men, women and children across the country, robbing and destroying as they go.

"In Northern Hupeh a night seldom passes but what a village or farmstead goes up in flames," reads the report of a mission in that section. "The price the bandits have levied in human lives may never be known but the deserted and barren countryside gives mute evidence of the high toll exacted. In the Provinces of Honan, Shantung and Kwangsi, similar conditions exist. Here, the reports indicate, country people have joined forces with the soldier gangs and are engaged in robbing and plundering the homes of their neighbors.

"In the famine areas of Kansu and Shensi provinces, banditry has attained alarming proportions. An otherwise rich agricultural region, this part of China is now one of the most desolate and barren places in all Asia."

North Manchuria has also suffered heavily from the recent spread of banditry. The recent Sino-Russian dispute turned the attention of the [illegible] troops to warfare, leaving the country an easy prey to robber bands. Now that the dispute with the Soviet has subsided the Manchurian army is again directing its attention toward bandit suppression.

It is considered amazing that despite widespread disorder in the interior, foreign missionaries who live amid such conditions have been comparatively safe. It is true that bandits killed at least a dozen Christian workers during 1929 but this number is considered small in comparison with the many missionaries in the land

LATEST ADDITION TO N.Y.K. SERVICE DUE THIS MORNING

Motorship Hikawa Maru Is Expected at William Head Quarantine Station From Yokohama at 10:30 o'Clock on Her Maiden Voyage in Command of Captain S. Akiyoshi

Transpacific Liner Will Return Here on June 11 for Inspection

On August 31, 1896, the Nippon Yusen Kaisha inaugurated service between Japan and the Pacific Northwest when Ss. Miike Maru steamed through Puget Sound and docked at Seattle. At 10:30 o'clock this morning the company's newest liner, Ms. Hikawa Maru, will arrive at William Head and dock at Rithet Piers on her maiden voyage about one hour later.

In keeping with demands of modern travel to and from Victoria, the Nippon Yusen Kaisha placed Ss. Mishima Maru in service in March, 1929, and followed with Ss. Siberia Maru on December 10, last year. The Korea Maru, her sister ship, will be placed on the route on June 25, both liners being well-appointed craft 551.7 feet long, which made names for themselves on the San Francisco-Orient route.

The Hikawa Maru is the first of three fast new motorships for this service and was commenced at Yokohama on November 9, 1928. She was launched on September 30, last year, sailed from Kobe on May 14 and Yokohama on May 17.

Two sister ships of the Hikawa Maru, the Hiye Maru and the Heian Maru, are now in course of being equipped, the former at the Yokohama Dock Co., and the latter at the Osaka Iron Works, Ltd., and will be ready for their maiden voyages in August and December.

IS 535 FEET LONG

The Hikawa Maru, like her sister ships, is a twin-screw vessel, having a gross tonnage of 11,600 tons and a displacement of 20,500 tons. She is equipped with two sets of double-acting Burmeister & Wain Diesel engines, capable of developing a sea speed of eighteen knots. The principal dimensions are: length, 535 feet, breadth 66 feet, and depth, 41 feet.

As the new liner was planned and constructed as an absolutely up-to-date passenger carrier, all the latest appliances in machinery for securing speed as well as the safety of the ship are included in her equipment. Likewise, for the comfort of passengers, the company spared no pains in order to meet the demands of modern discriminating ocean travelers. In addition to the beautifully furnished, comfortable public rooms usually found on modern passenger ships, she has both glass-enclosed and open promenade decks for the recreation of passengers during the voyage. A nursery for children and a dark room for amateur photographers are also found on the ship. Moreover, as the new liner is a motor-driven ship, not a shovelful of coal need be carried on board, and the vessel is therefore entirely free from the defilement of coal dust and smoke.

The special feature of Hikawa Maru, as well as her sister ships, is that they are the first cabin ships ever built for the transpacific traffic, with accommodations for both cabin and tourist cabin classes, thereby offering opportunity for transpacific passengers to travel at low rates without sacrifice of comfort.

FINE ACCOMMODATION

The cabin class passenger quarters, both staterooms and public rooms, are arranged on the central part of "A" and "B" decks. Many of the staterooms have private baths attached and include a suite de luxe and a number of single-bedded rooms. All cabin class staterooms are outside rooms, with either large windows or portholes opening direct on the sea, and they are provided with comfortable full-length beds instead of berths, with modern spring mattresses. They are unusually spacious and are furnished with dressing tables, bedroom chairs and washstands, with hot and cold running water, and are heated and ventilated by the Thermotank Punkah Louvre system. In consideration of the cold weather that might be experienced during the Winter season on this northern route, steam heaters are also placed in both cabin and tourist cabin quarters, in addition to the above system by which hot air is mechanically introduced in these sections.

The suite de luxe is situated on the port side of the "A" deck, and is a regular de luxe room, comprising a sitting-room, a bedroom and a bathroom.

The public rooms of the Hikawa Maru are sumptuously decorated and furnished by the famous Paris firm of Messrs. Marc Simon, a specimen of whose unique decorative work has already been seen on the Ms. Chichibu Maru, the company's latest addition to its Orient-California fleet, where she has gained high praise. The decorations of the public rooms of her two sister ships, however, are executed by different hands. Those of the Hiye Maru are handled exclusively by the builders of that ship, the Yokohama Dock Company, and those of the Heian Maru are jointly executed by Messrs. Wylie & Lochhead, Limited, and Messrs. Heaton, Tabb & Company, Limited, both of London.

The dining saloon for the cabin class, at the fore part of the "B" deck, has a seating capacity of eighty persons. It is treated in modern style, and, though remarkable for the simpleness of its lines, it bears a note of quiet elegance. Pilasters of pear-tree wood between the windows are ornamented with pieces of silver-shaded bronze, to which lights are fitted. The centre of the wall of the fore end is occupied by a large silver mirror. At the middle of the aft end, there is a large sideboard of walnut in three parts, the top of which is covered with grey marble. The ceiling of painted wood has lighting devices in the round ground glasses in its recess. The dome in the centre is illuminated by lights concealed in a glass-enclosed case made of wrought iron and engraved glass. The N.Y.K. meals served in this beautiful dining-room are universally famous for the materials used and the manner of cooking and serving, as the N.Y.K. chefs are all culinary artists who have studied at hotels in New York, London and Paris.

The cabin class reading and writing-room is one the port side of "A" deck, adjoining the lounge. The wainscotting, panels and pilasters in lemon-tree wood, and the floor covered with colorful moquette carpet, give to the room a very luxurious and bright atmosphere. On the starboard side there is a large bookcase filled with all sorts of books by classical and modern authors. With two double writing tables stocked with dainty stationery, placed in this room, one is at leisure either to indulge in reading a book of one's choice, or to write to one's friends or folks at home of one's delightful experiences on board the ship.

LARGE FIREPLACE

The smoking-room is situated at the aft end of "A" deck. The walls, lined with palisander and dark walnut, are designed to impart height to the room.

There is a fireplace in the centre of the forewall, with large grooved pilasters in complachien and a stone hearth. This part is brightened by a central silver mirror the full height of the room. The angle settees of walnut placed in the recesses adjoining the fireplace are upholstered in leather and provided with comfortable feather cushions in velvet. The ceiling is composed of veneered panels with gold frieze, and in the centre is a large glass-enclosed case of wrought iron and ground glass in four divisions. The entire floor of the room is covered with ruboleum. The door in the centre of the aft wall leads to the veranda, which is a fitting place from which to observe the ever-changing views of the ocean. Most of the lights in the room are shaded with ground glass of a green tint, so as to give the place a sense of restfulness.

The luxurious lounge for cabin class passengers is at fort part of the "A" deck. The whole of the pan-ceiling in sycamore wood, polished in soft shades, matches the ceiling, painted and enhanced with cornice in gold. The fore part of the room opens to the bridge deck by two double windows with large damask curtains. Pilasters in polished sycamore wood are decorated with carved work on the upper parts. The central panel over the mantelpiece is a large mirror surrounded by painted wood, enhanced with gold mouldings. On the mantelpiece stands a carved piece, on each side of which is an alabaster vase, within which is a searchlight that projects light to the dome. At the centre of the ceiling, there is a large, glass-enclosed case constructed of wrought iron and ground glass, inside of which is installed a powerful lighting device.

A ground piano of polished palisander, the rich furniture and the decorative effect of many potted plants give the room a luxurious appearance and make an ideal gathering place for the passengers during the voyage.

TOURIST CABINS

The nursery is on the "B" deck, near the dining saloon, and is furnished with all kinds of toys and playthings agreeable to small passengers.

The inquiry office is conveniently situated near the entrance to the dining-saloon on the "A" deck. All required information regarding itineries, hotel reservation, etc., can be obtained here.

As already stated, the provision of the tourist cabin passenger accommodation on the new liner is a feature which needs special mention. The accommodation and the cuisine provided in this class are as good as those of the second class on any other transpacific passenger liner. With the low rates charged for this class of accommodation, therefore, it will no doubt be a great benefit to those who wish to travel economically across the Pacific and who do not care for ostentation.

The tourist cabins are arranged on the after part of the "C" deck; they comprise outer and inner rooms, both having ample daylight. There are altogether twenty-three rooms for this class, i.e., nine rooms for two persons, five for three persons, and nine for four persons. The total number that can be accommodated in this class is therefore sixty-nine persons.

THIRD CLASS SPACE

The modestly-decorated dining saloon for the tourist cabin passengers is on the port side of the "C" deck. The comfortable lounge and the smoking-room are on the "B" deck and are surrounded by a spacious promenade deck.

The steerage accommodation is at the fore ends of the "C" and "B" decks. As in the case of the superior classes on this liner, the company has given no small consideration to the comfort and convenience of the passengers in this class. There are twenty immaculate compartments for 138 passengers, of which five compartments contain four berths, one six berths and fourteen eight berths. Each berth is provided with a comfortable mattress, clean bedding and a pillow. Sanitary matters in this class are also thoroughly looked after. Moreover, the quarters are well ventilated by the latest Thermotank Punkah Louvre system and are heated by the same device in the cold weather.

Besides a spacious dining-room on the "C" deck, a smoking-room and a lounge, both on the "B" deck, are also provided. There are Japanese as well as European style baths for the use of passengers in this class.

The name of the Hikawa Maru is taken from the much-venerated, ancient Shinto shrine, Hikawa-jinsha, situated in the flourishing town of Omiya, nineteen miles north of Tokio. This is the most important shrine in Musashi Province and dates from the time of the Emperor Kosho Tenno (475 B.C.). It is dedicated to the three deities—Susano - o - no - Mikoto, his consort Inada-Hime, and Oanamuchi-no-Mikoto.

The shrine was held in special reverence by Yoritomo and Ieyasu, each of whom presented a certain tract of land towards its maintenance.

When the late Emperor Meiji Tenno removed his capital from Kyoto to Tokio, he paid a visit to the shrine, in the ancient equipage then in vogue, on October 28, 1868.

The main shrine is built of unpainted wood and has nothing to show in the way of decoration. It is, however, characterized by the chaste simplicity befitting a Shinto shrine of the first rank.

Adjoining the shrine compound is Omiya Park, covering over twenty acres and containing many stately pines and cryptomerias, and also cherry trees. The presence of a pond, a mineral spring, and well-equipped tea houses, makes the park a favorite pleasure resort for people from Tokio and its neighborhood. About a mile to the east of the park flows the Minuma River, the banks of which are noted for fireflies in Summer.

NEW YORK, May 26. — The American oil tanker, W. W. Bruce, badly damaged Saturday night in collision with another tanker, the Scottish Maiden, in a heavy fog thirteen miles southeast of Barnegal lightship, moved into port Sunday with the aid of two tugs. The Scottish Maiden, less seriously damaged, proceeded to Newport News, Va., a few hours after the accident. The W. W. Bruce has a hole twenty feet long and nineteen feet wide extending below the water line in her port bow.

SPECIAL TRAINS TO BRING CALIFORNIANS TO VANCOUVER SOON

City of Sleeping and Dining Cars Will Be Established at Toronto

VANCOUVER, May 26. — Seven hundred Shriners in four special trains will invade Vancouver next week, stopping off here a few hours on their way to Toronto to attend the 56th annual session of the Imperial Council, Ancient Arabic Order Nobles of the Mystic Shrine.

On Tuesday, June 3, two special trains will bring 300 members of the Al Malaikah Temple from Los Angeles, the first train arriving here over the Great Northern Railway at 7 a.m., and the second at 7:20 a.m. A later train is scheduled to bring 220 members of the Islam Temple of San Francisco.

Later in the week, on Thursday, June 5, another special train will reach Vancouver at 9 a.m. and leave for the East at 11 a.m., carrying 180 members of the Aahmes Temple, Oakland.

All four trains will be turned over to the Canadian Pacific Railway on arrival here, and will proceed East over the company's lines, with stop overs at Lake Louise and Banff.

In Toronto, where thousands of Shriners from all parts of the United States and Canada will gather next month, the trains will be parked in Fez City, a city of sleeping and dining cars built to house the thousands who will be unable to secure hotel accommodation.

CHALK MESSAGES BANNED

Saltcoats, Scotland, has given local authorities power to prosecute those who write messages with chalk on street pavements. The action follows the chalking of a pavement outside a church with reference to the Russian religious persecutions, city officials declaring that the messages were intended to cause bad feeling among party factions.

The court held that both drivers were negligent.

ALPS' TOLL 100 A YEAR

More than 400 people met death in the Swiss Alps in the last four years, according to a recent report of an official inquiry into the number and causes of fatal accidents. Tourists comprise more than half the number of victims, the other fatalities including various classes of agricultural and other highland workers, especially the Wildheuer or haymakers on the mountain slopes. Twenty-four per cent of the total number of victims were under twenty years of age. There also was a large percentage among persons over forty-nine. The most suitable age for mountaineering would appear, according to the report, to be between thirty and forty-five years. Avalanches cause between seven and nine deaths a year, landslides one or two, fatal falls from thirty-five to forty and three or four are frozen to death.

PAGEANT HELD AT HYDE PARK

Hundreds of Thousands Participate in Celebration—Amusing Incident Develops at Harrogate

By THOMAS T. CHAMPION
Canadian Press Staff Correspondent.

LONDON, May 26.—Empire Day, although not a national holiday here, has always been celebrated unofficially. The most spectacular event was the annual pageant at Hyde Park, organized by the enterprising Daily Express, owned by the Canadian-born peer, Lord Beaverbrook.

The pageant attracted a crowd of hundreds of thousands Saturday, and there was singing, as hearty as of old, despite unemployment. The music was furnished by the Guards massed bands, and a prayer service was held, in an atmosphere which suddenly became devout, by the Bishop of London.

At Harrogate, Yorkshire, an amusing incident developed. The mayor, who happens to be the father of Mrs. Philip Snowden, had refused to attend tht local demonstration if "Rule Britannia," "Hearts of Oak" and other songs, which he deemed "boastful war tunes," were included. In deference to his wishes these songs were removed from the official programme, but a section of the audience, not to be denied their old favorites, took up the singing of the forbidden melodies, competing with the band, who attempted to drown them out with powerful strains of "Fight the Good Fight."

POLICE COURT CASES

James Ross and Albert Pellett were charged in the city police court yesterday with assaulting Lung Moi and also A. McKinnon on May 24. Mr. Stuart Henderson, appearing for Pellett, asked for a remand until today, which was granted to both the accused by Magistrate George Jay.

Two Indians were fined for being intoxicated and two white men for being intoxicated in a public place. One driver was fined $20 for driving to the common danger, and one was fined $10 for driving past a street car when the latter came to a stop.

Separation Granted

Gyro Luncheon Is Held Aboard New Steamship

The weekly luncheon of the Gyro Club was held yesterday aboard the Princess Elizabeth, the speaker of the day being Captain Neroutsos. Following the luncheon, members of the club inspected the steamer.

Captain Neroutsos, in his address, told of the remarkable growth of the company's coastal steamship service since its inauguration and mentioned the additional runs which are to be made during the rush months to Victoria and to Nanaimo. The two new vessels, the Princess Elizabeth and the Princess Joan, were not excelled, he said, anyhere in the world by any vessel in a similar type of service.

Before they had been completed, he had inspected ships of the same type in Great Britain and other Continental centres, and had not found anything to equal the new additions to the fleet. He referred to the fact that both had double bottoms and were therefore much safer than the ordinary type of vessels.

Each had been constructed at a cost of £225,000. Designs for them had been drawn up in his own office and had been carried through according to the schedule arranged last year, the speaker concluded.

During the luncheon, Gyro Doug. Parkes entertained the members with two vocal solos, while the club orchestra contributed several numbers.

Votes of thanks were tendered by Frank Burton, president, to Captain Neroutsos. He also expressed his appreciation to Captain Perry Rogers, master of the ship, and J. Byrom, the port steward.

Burgess Bedtime Stories

The New Neighbors

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Who brags of what he thinks he knows
His ignorance will soon expose.
—Danny Meadow Mouse.

Peter Rabbit was much puzzled. All the time that Danny Meadow Mouse had been talking about those new neighbors, whom he didn't like, but who liked him, Peter had been looking this way and that way. But look as he would he could see no one, except Danny.

"Who are those new neighbors?" inquired Peter.

Just then there was a shrill cry. It came from somewhere up above. Danny Meadow Mouse seemed to shrink. Yes, sir, he seemed to shrink and actually grow smaller, although of course he didn't. But he did flaten himself so close to the ground and draw himself in so that he seemed to be smaller than he really was. Peter stared at Danny for a moment. It was plain that Danny was a badly frightened Meadow Mouse. As Peter could see nothing to cause such fright, he concluded that it was that shrill cry that had given Danny such a scare.

"You said those Sparrow Hawks had a nest near here," said he Again he heard that shrill cry of "Killy! Killy! Killy!" And between the branches of the tree above him he caught a glimpse of a bird. He recognized it at once as Killy the Sparrow Hawk. Killy was circling overhead. Suddenly it popped into Peter's head that Killy might be one of the new neighbors. He looked down at Danny Meadow Mouse. Danny was still crouched there, a picture of fright. Presently the voice of Killy sounded from some distance away. Danny Meadow Mouse drew a long breath. "Do you see anything of Mrs. Killy anywhere?" he inquired in his squeaky little voice.

Peter looked all around, but could see nothing of Killy or Mrs. Killy, and said so.

"Probably she's on the nest," said Danny. Those are the new neighbors. It is bad enough now. A dozen times a day I have a fright just like the one I had a moment ago. But that is nothing to what it will be when they have a family to hunt for. Nanny and I have got to move before then. We have got to have a little peace in life."

Peter was, of course, all curiosity. "Do you mean that Killy the Sparrow Hawk and Mrs. Killy have a nest around here?" he inquired eagerly.

"I mean just that," replied Danny. "Why they couldn't have picked some other place I don't understand. Here we were, all comfortably settled, and they had to come over here and set up housekeeping. What with those two in the daytime and Spooky the Screech Owl at night, an honest Meadow Mouse hasn't much chance around here. It is a wonder that Nanny and I are alive as it is."

Meanwhile, Peter was looking up through the trees in search of a nest. He couldn't see one. He looked and looked, but he couldn't see a nest anywhere.

"What are you looking for?" inquired Danny when he noticed what Peter was doing.

"You said those Sparrow Hawks had a nest round here," said he, "and I am looking for it. But I don't see a nest anywhere. It ought to be a good-sized nest and I should be able to see it."

Danny stared very hard at Peter. "Do you mean to tell me, Peter Rabbit," said he, "that you have lived around here as long as you have and don't know that Killy the Sparrow Hawk's nest is in a hole in a tree?"

Peter looked quite as foolish as he felt. "Of course I know it," said he, "now that you mention it. It had slipped my mind."
